Eight miles of molten lava moves in on Hawaii village

KALAPANA, Hawaii (AP) — A 1,000-foot-wide stream of molten lava from Kilauea Volcano inched closer to this coastal Hawaii Island community on Friday and threatened to bury homes in its path.

The thick ooze of lava was a mile from the ocean by Friday morning and 18 homes and a Catholic church were in its path.

The eight-mile-long stream of lava, about six inches thick, was moving at 350 feet per hour, slowed by level ground from its 600-foot hourly advance earlier in the week.

The 50 residents of the threatened houses began evacuating Thursday. Hawaii County Mayor Herbert Matayoshi declared a state of emergency in the area, about 30 miles southeast of Hilo, the largest city on the state's largest island — also named Hawaii. After the flow hits the 18 oceanside houses in this small community, it has a clear path to the water.

County Civil Defense director Harry Kim said the flow threatened the cultural and historic center of the community, which is less than 10 miles from the eruption site.

An Army demolition team has been in the area experimenting with methods of diverting lava flows. But scientists told residents that technical problems and a lack of preparation time prevented any effort to halt the approaching lava.

Kilauea, which is one of two active volcanoes in Volcanoes National Park, pumped lava from a rift on its eastern slope, shooting fountains of lava 200 feet high with occasional bursts to 250 and 300 feet.

The last major volcanic eruption in Hawaii came at Mauna Loa, the other volcano in the park, two years ago.

Bulging prisons overloaded by at least 20,000 convicts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's prisons are bulging with at least 20,000 more inmates than they were built to hold, threatening the safety and privacy of many prisoners, a report to Congress said Friday.

"Most of the jurisdictions in the United States face prison problems of different degrees. Most jurisdictions are in trouble," said the report.

Congress last year ordered the study of present and future needs of state and federal prisons.

Focusing on overcrowding, the report said state and federal institutions for adult prisoners housed 283,433 inmates as of June 30. But the capacity of those institutions was only 262,768 and the population was 20,665 above capacity.

The statistics indicated that Florida prisons were the most severely overcrowded with nearly 19,000 inmates in space designed for about 14,000.

The California system seemed to be in the best shape with fewer than 22,000 prisoners and space for about 2,000 more.

The statistics may not show an accurate picture of the overcrowding because of differences in the way prison officials determine institutional capacity, the researchers noted.

In some cases, they said, prison officials simply raised the rated capacity to come closer to the actual population and make the problem of overcrowding appear less serious.

On the other hand, prison officials may reduce the rate of capacity when they're trying to impress state legislators with the seriousness of the problem and persuade them to appropriate more money, the report said.

There were wide regional variations in the overcrowding problem.

'Quick tax cut' plans are revealed in memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering splitting up its forthcoming tax package to give millions of Americans a quick tax cut next year, it was learned Friday.

In a Sept. 2 memo to President Carter, Treasury Department officials said Congress may not approve the entire tax bill by mid-1978, when the economy might need a tax cut.

If a quick boost is needed, the administration could ask Congress to pass a separate bill cutting withholding taxes for wages and salaries in 1978 rather than the 1979 target date in the tax package, the memo said.

President Carter is still studying the tax proposals, but in one recent draft the taxes paid by a family of four with an annual income of $15,000 to $20,000 would be reduced by about $300 to $1,360 a year.

The draft calls for a major change in the individual tax program. It would raise the income at which no taxes are paid from $7,600 to $9,500 a year for a family of four. A family would begin paying 12 per cent on money earned above the $9,500 level, but a complete scale was not worked out.

Carter's energy plan hit by major setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in still another major setback for supporters of President Carter's energy plan, Friday refused for the second time to set aside a plan lifting federal controls on natural gas prices.

The 50 to 44 vote demonstrated that in several days of a marathon filibuster by foes of deregulation, the administration had been able to pick up only two votes in its efforts to retain controls over the critical fuel.

Nonetheless, filibuster leaders refused to give up and said Friday's vote might be overturned.

"Our intention is to continue the filibuster," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "I guess we could continue the filibuster for another week, 10 days, maybe two weeks without much trouble."

Metzenbaum said counting absentees, opponents of deregulation were only a few votes shy of a tie. Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., joined him in leading the filibuster.

However, one key administration supporter, Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said it appeared to him that the battle in the Senate on natural gas was over.

"I think the handwriting is on the wall and we ought to get on with it," he said.

Should the Carter administration concede defeat in the Senate, the natural gas issue would go to a House-Senate conference committee. The House has approved Carter's plan for a natural gas ceiling of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said it appeared the deregulation forces have a slight margin and urged, "Let's get on with the people's business forum, the conference between the House and Senate."

Metzenbaum and Abourezk had blocked a vote on extending the federal debt ceiling. Without the extension the federal government would eventually have been unable to honor checks or pay its employes.

FROINES NAMED

50,000 dock workers go out on strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike by 50,000 East and Gulf coast longshoremen against containership operators was declared in effect as of midnight Friday by Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO. The head of the federal mediation service said it was impossible to avert the walkout.

"The strike is on," Gleason said before leaving his Manhattan office hours in advance of the midnight strike deadline.

As he left, the last of 14 big containerships, decks laden high with van-size cargo boxes, began putting out to sea from New York Harbor to escape entrapment by the strike.

New deadline set for Japan ransom payoff

The five hijackers, identified as members of the ultra-leftist Japanese Red Army and said to be armed with guns and explosives, seized a JAL jet Wednesday over India and forced it to land at Dacca airport.

A JAL spokesman said the plane was slightly behind schedule and it was due to arrive in Dacca at 11:45 a.m. today, 25 minutes later than originally scheduled.

He also said the hijackers had extended their deadline to 12 noon today — just 15 minutes after the approaching jet is scheduled to touch down at Dacca airport. An earlier 4 a.m. Saturday deadline set by the hijackers passed without apparent incident.

The ransom jet also was carrying 6.6 tons of food, medical supplies and clothing and 76 government and airline officials led by JAL president Shizuo Asada and Hajimi Ishii, a parliamentary minister.

Gov. Brown and 800 Demos honor Ayala

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Assistant City Editor

More than 800 Democrats, from hometown friends and neighbors to Governor Brown, attended a $50 a plate dinner Friday night in San Bernardino for Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., Chino.

It was a festive affair with music by a seven-piece Mariachi band, a no-host cocktail bar and a steak dinner.

Governor Brown, introduced by former Congressman Jerry Voorhis of Claremont, praised Ayala as a "good friend, a good legislator who has taken it upon himself to provide a great link in the California water plan.

"If we ever get it, we should name a canal after Ayala," Brown said.

Ayala's $3 billion water bill to build a peripheral canal was defeated in the senate the last day of the session. He has said he will have it back on the senate floor Jan. 3.

Brown went on to say that in the last three years one million new jobs had been created in California by private business, that society was on the move, just on the verge of creating a brand new industry, solar energy.

"We try to give people an opportunity to learn and to work. I have just signed a bill to ban forced retirement. From now on in California, whether it's public or private, that's illegal."

Senate President Pro Tem James Mills said, "The first man to sail a ship into San Francisco Bay was an Ayala. Sometimes Ruben looks upon us all as his guests."

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy called Ayala "Rube" and said, "You'd better have the 27 water bill votes by January or this is the last dinner you'll have."

San Bernardino County Coroner Bill Hill was master of ceremonies. After introducing eight members of the legislature, he said, "We practically have a quorum. We could probably pass Ruben's water bill right here."

The light mood of the party was marred by members of the San Bernardino County Labor Council AFL-CIO who picketed the entrance gate at the National Orange Show Grounds and inside distributed literature. Earlier they had announced they would boycott the dinner because of Ayala's vote on June 23 against binding arbitration for public employees.

Ayala and Governor Brown shared the head table not only with senators and assemblymen, but with political leaders from San Bernardino County and City government.

Voorhis paused to congratulate Mrs. Irene Ayala, wife of the senator, on "having brought up a husband to be one of the finest legislators in the state."

In introducing Governor Brown, Voorhis said, "This young man has a fresh-air style of life and should be a model to all of us in politics. He is motivated by a religious conviction. He is more than a governor, he is a guide and philosopher of the people. I hope he will soon call a special session of the legislature on tax reform."

Capture gunman after teargas barrage

Police storm hijacked French jet

PARIS (AP) — Police marksmen firing teargas grenades stormed a hijacked French jetliner Friday night and captured a blond gunman who had shot a stewardess and threatened to blow up the plane unless his recorded political message was broadcast.

One passenger was killed and at least four were wounded when the hijacker lobbed a hand grenade toward the cockpit as some 50 policemen forced their way into the jet parked at Orly Airport, a French official said.

Passengers said some crew members were wounded when shots were fired inside the twin-engine Caravelle and the hijacker was injured slightly by a teargas grenade that hit him in the head.

But district administrator Jean Perier said no shots were fired by policemen carying sidearms or the hijacker, armed with a pistol. "There was absolutely no exchange of fire," he said.

The lightning strike by specially trained officers came more than eight hours after the hijacker first commandeered the Paris-to-Lyon domestic Air-Inter flight and held more than 90 passengers hostage. The gunman had been negotiating with French officials, warning them not to "try anything stupid" or he would kill his captives.

Police identified the hijacker as Jacques Robert. He became known as France's "Pirate of the Air Waves" after he burst into a radio station on Feb. 8, 1974.

Bill raises mandatory retirement age to 70

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Senate Human Resources Committee approved a bill Friday raising the mandatory retirement age to 70 after agreeing to exempt tenured university professors and school teachers from the change.

The vote was 8-to-5 on the amendment exempting teachers.

The provision was offered on behalf of the academic hierachy, which has expressed concern about getting "new teaching blood" into the classroom.

Bitterly disappointed were representatives of teacher organizations which had fought to allow older teachers to keep their jobs until the age of 70. In most instances, teachers, like the majority of others in the private sector, face forced retirement at age 65.

The overall bill, passed by voice vote, would raise the mandatory retirement age for most private employment from 65 to 70. It applies to workers whose employer has 20 or more persons on the payroll, or 70 percent of the labor force.

The committee also bowed to President Carter's request to postpone the effective date of the legislation until Jan. 1, 1979, to allow business to adjust to the proposed new retirement age.

Ayala airs views on arbitration, Foothill Freeway, and tax relief

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., discussed property tax relief, the Foothill Freeway, binding arbitration and a bill to limit the term of gubernatorial appointments with valley mayors Friday.

The senator concluded two days of informal meetings with elected officials in his district Friday at the Sycamore Inn, Cucamonga. Among those attending were Chino Mayor Bob Mc Leod, Pomona Mayor Charles Bader, Upland Mayor George Gibson and city managers John Gerardi, Lee Travers, Lauren Wasserman and Roger Hughbanks, respectively of Chino, Upland, Montclair and Ontario.

Binding arbitration for public employes is the "first step in local government crumbling," Ayala said. "Empioyes would like to have it. It's wrong to water down the authority of local officials and transfer it to people who might not even live in the community. Local residents wouldn't have any recourse."

Ayala voiced no ire about binding arbitration in the private sector because it does not involve public tax dollars. "But when you're talking about public employes, you're talking about tax dollars," he said, repeating his opposition to Senate Bill 164 which would mandate binding arbitration.

On the matter of property tax relief, Ayala felt that state legislators dragged their feet in putting together a comprehensive and effective bill in the last session. He voted for the bill which passed although it did not meet all needs. But he said the matter will come up again in the next legislative session and should be examined more carefully.

The $2.7 billion savings, or relief, was "not the result of the fact we're frugal legislators. It just happened in spite of us, not because of us," Ayala continued. "In order to come up with a good bill, we get so involved and complex with terms no one ever heard of. People don't give a damn about that. They want property tax relief."

The senator appeared skeptical about the removal of the inventory tax and the limitation on city spending. In the first instance, he felt some provision should be made to reimburse cities those funds lost with the removal of the inventory tax. Secondly, he noted, "I will not support a bill that doesn't also put a cap on state government.

"To limit local government is wrong, especially if binding arbitration goes through."

Regarding the Foothill Freeway, Ayala offered little hope that the bill drafted by Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-62nd Dist., for completion of the cooridor from La Verne to San Bernardino would pass. He spoke of the anti-freeway attitude of Adriana Gianturco, director of the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans).

Ayala said the attitude of Mrs. Gianturco, who had assured him and others before Senate confirmation of her appointment that she was not anti-freeway, indicates the need to limit the terms of gubernatorial appointees.

He announced that he would soon introduce a bill whereby "any appointment confirmed by the (state) Senate can only go as long as the term of the governor. If he gets re-elected, then the appointee must be reappointed and reconfirmed by the Senate."

According to Ayala, this would allow the people "to have a little bit of control and a little bit of a hammer so these people don't stay there forever."

Finally, on the question of Expo 81, Ayala reiterated his lack of support to a resolution authored by Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino calling for legislative sanction of the fair and additional steps by the President. He said he would not introduce any bill on the $133 million revenue bond issue that Expo 81 Corp. is seeking to be released through the state Public Works Board.

County, civic leaders back proposed Mall renovation

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

County and civic leaders Friday gave their blessing to a proposed project designed to revitalize the Pomona Mall.

"We all acknowledged that Pomona has needed a good shot in the arm," said Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum. "The county stands ready to help."

"Our community leaders are as ready as I am to see something happen downtown," commented Pomona Mayor Charles Bader. "It is a pleasure to see some ambitious plans here. The prime thrust has come from the private sector. We can help. We are eager to help."

Both men were referring to revitalization plans unveiled by Frank G. Summers Jr., president of California Park Development Co., Inc. at his new offices at 295 Pomona Mall West.

Summer revealed that he and a group of men have bought various properties on the mall and will renovate them to attract tenants at 75 percent of the going rent.

First buildings facing renovation are the S. H. Kress building at Locust Street, the Woolworth building on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and the re-opening of Nash's as Walker's Department Store.

Summers said his redevelopment plan is the culmination of several years of study and research.

"Our area has better demographics than Montclair Plaza," he said. "But we must promote."

Summers said that 37 properties have changed hands recently and are awaiting renovation and new tenants.

He mentioned new property owners as attorney Victor G. Tessier and former Pomonan Jerry Edgars, now a Covina businessman.

Summers asked for strong support from the community.

"We have had negativism in the community, but I feel the people in this room this morning don't fit into that category," Summers said.

Prentice Royal of Adventures in Achievement, Inc. told the audience that "you have awakened a sleeping giant. You must be feeling a spark of individuality, of creativity."

He forecast that the project will draw a tremendous amount of people back into the area.

Chamber President Robert Burwell pledged that the chamber of commerce will "support you in any way we can."

Alternative to a college

Eleventh in a series
By JOHN DOUGLAS

Assuming your child is not motivated to launch a full-time college career at the end of high school, what alternatives present themselves? Several — but all require some planning ahead. The worst possible time to talk with your teenager about career planning is just before high school graduation. This is one decision you can't make for your children, and shouldn't try. You can, however, help your children prepare for the transition graduation brings by discussing with them some of the following alternatives to full-time college study, well in advance of the time they must choose among them:

Vocational education in high school. Have your youngster take advantage of the federal money being poured into "skills centers" designed to train high school students for immediate entrance into the job market. Talk to the school guidance counselor and see whether he or she is well informed about the real value of training opportunities available. (Many, unfortunately, are now.) Find out what local businesses are involved in cooperative education and talk with your child about the possibility of on-the-job

Confident his community meetings are working

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Ontario Police Chief Lee Kolbrek walks almost weekly into the "jaws of the lion" where few police chiefs in other cities would dare not tread.

After nearly two years of the community program, Kolbrek is confident his personal appearance at meetings following major police actions in troubled areas of the city does more to reduce tensions and anxieties than a show of force or extra "selective" patrols.

Following serious incidents where residents question police action taken or fear more serious events may occur, Kolbrek volunteers to meet with the people involved.

He will soothe their fears, answer questions, and promise to investigate any hints of wrongdoings by officers under his command.

"To me, it's just a part of my job," said Kolbrek. "It gives me feedback from the community. It lets me know what the citizens feel and how we, as a police department, can better serve them."

Kolbrek said the one thing he relies on is "honesty." If residents have a complaint about certain police actions, he briefly tries to explain the necessity of the action of his officers at the time, laws surrounding the action, and encourages residents to seek other information from legislative representatives or other agencies outside the department.

"If we find the citizens' complaints have some factual basis, we make it a point to bring information back to the department and try to do something about it."

Assisting Kolbrek in such investigations are members of the department's community services bureau and a staff officer charged with checking allegations of misconduct made against police officers.

Special hearings are held with witnesses when necessary. Some hearings have resulted in officers being reduced in rank, suspended from duty without pay, and placed on probationary status.

Kolbrek meets with residents at their homes, businesses or neighborhood schools. He said most residents are "amiable," but admitted some meetings have resulted in "very heavy discussions."

He cited one example which involved a police officer who attempted to arrest a man on a traffic violation in a city park where several hundred persons had gathered.

The man became combative, and the officer was forced to draw his service revolver and shoot him. The man was not killed. Persons at the park questioned the officer's action.

"We offered to meet with representatives of persons who witnessed the incident and gave them a complete rundown of the shooting," said Kolbrek.

"It seemed to help. It lightened the tension."

Kolbrek most often meets with residents on Wednesday evenings. He also helps those he is meeting with notify other area residents should they want to attend.

Any resident is invited to attend these meetings. And no list of names of those attending is kept.

"We find that many people attend but they don't want anyone else to know they attended. We respect this."

In addition to the discussions, materials are given to residents which tell how they may protect their homes, their rights under the law, and tips on how to prevent burglaries and acts of violence occurring in their neighborhoods.

The various burglary and crime prevention programs are not explained at the meetings, but residents are told who they may contact for assistance at the police station and through their agencies, said Kolbrek.

TIME TO RELAX

Walking all over the Los Angeles County Fair can be tiring, even when the weather is cool. There are many places on the grounds where a person can relax, such as the picnic area near the Plaza of the States. The world's largest county fair runs through Sunday.

BARBARA SMITH

Barbara Smith named Chino's top teacher

Barbara Smith, a math teacher who has only taught in the Chino school district for two years, has been chosen as the district's "Teacher of the Year" for 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith, a teacher at Don Lugo High School and the district's subject area specialist in mathematics, was chosen by a committee made up of two district administrators and two teachers.

The committee made the selection from a group of nominees offered by each district principal.

Mrs. Smith is a "super teacher," according to Kay Moore, director of secondary curriculum who served on the final selection committee.

Mrs. Moore described the teacher as dedicated to her profession, and willing to work on important ad hoc committees. "She has complete dedication and works well with people."

Mrs. Smith has been a teacher in Chino since 1975, and before that was a teacher in the Rialto school district for four years. She also has been a math analyst in the aerospace industry.

Mrs. Smith resides in Claremont with her husband and one son.

She will now enter competition for San Bernardino County "Teacher of the Year" which is a prelude to possible state and national competition.

Solar energy could provide 8% of energy needs by year 2000?

By the year 2000, solar energy could be providing 8 per cent of all U. S. energy needs, reports a California research organization.

And the market for solar-powered heating systems, as an example, has shown a sharp growth within the past two years. Starting from a near-zero base in 1975, solar space heater sales have been doubling every six months, they added.

Researchers believe the market will continue to double annually for the next five to 10 years before slowing down.

Solar-powered water and space heating systems are now economically competitive with electric water and space heating, reported the scientists. Solar energy, however, can't yet compete with the low price of natural gas.

Another potential area for solar energy products is the area of solar-powered watches and calculators. Such products cost considerably more than the battery-powered items, but the price difference is due to the novelty of the solar devices rather than high production costs.

Technological findings will continue to open new uses for solar energy, researchers believe.

SRI International, previously the Stanford Research Institute, is an independent, non-profit organization based in Menlo Park. It performs contract research for clients in business and government.

DMV open to suggestions with Backseat Driver plan

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is getting the community into the swing of affairs and policies at local DMV offices.

Established in July 1976, the Backseat Drivers is a public panel serving each DMV service area with the intention of pleasing more folks and lessening the frustrations of driver license renewals, vehicle registrations and assorted other responsibilities of the motoring public.

Jack Souders, Pomona DMV office manager, and Martha Wellington, Pomona Backseat Drivers secretary, recently discussed the purposes and accomplishments of the special panel of community persons. The Upland office of the DMV, under the coordination of office manager Roy Stokes, also offers a Backseat Drivers public panel to West End residents.

"There's always a better way of doing something. A way of improving and refining something. We're open to suggestions through the Backseat Drivers," said Souders. "There are some state mandates that must be followed, but we mainly rely on general suggestions and input from the Backseat Drivers and others."

Souders and Mrs. Wellington stressed the need to improve the image of the DMV and to institute a person-to-person public relations policy between each employe and each patron. With this in mind, the newsletter is circulated among employes with suggestions ranging from a pleasant telephone tone to courteous and prompt service at all windows and departments.

According to Souders, a major complaint about DMV service is the abrupt closing of a window after a patron has stood there for quite some time. Pomona Backseat panelist Myron Shrago suggested that a closed sign be displayed in the manner of most supermarkets to warn patrons a window is about to close. This is a means of saving time and improving communications, Souders said.

In a move to liven up the appearance of the Pomona DMV, the local office accepted a transportation mural from local artist and Backseat panelist Tim Morgan that now hangs in the Erie street office.

The Upland and Pomona offices were among several in the state which suggested and implemented form and publication revisions "to make it easier for both the public and the office staff processing the information," said Mrs. Wellington.

Mrs. Wellington reported that considerable work has also been done with senior citizens and the handicapped. An emblem, with wording as a "friendly reminder" to non-handicapped persons parking in reserved spaces for the handicapped, was developed by the Backseat Drivers and circulated state-wide to DMV offices and community organizations.

The Backseaters also introduced the inclusion of a briefer on handicapped provisions in the California Vehicle Code into license renewal notifications, began the concept of signs and curbs for the handicapped at DMV and other public traffic areas, and worked with local officials for the adoption of ordinances providing for special parking for the handicapped.

The Backseaters hope to extend information meetings to others in the future with the use of consumer forums.

Upland is among the DMV offices which have recommended dealing not only with the concerns of regular patrons, but also of facing the issues of the problem drivers.

"Down The Road," the annual report on the Backseaters program, states that in Upland and elsewhere "panelists are seeking ways to eliminate the hazards caused by drunk drivers, ranging from stiffer sentencing to changing public attitudes towards the drinking driver. They are also interested in the effectiveness of drunk driving diversion programs."

The Backseaters will also be used in a community-to-community survey soon to determine the most feasible service hours of DMV offices throughout the state.

The state legislation calls for the circulation of questionnaires to members of business and labor groups, civic and social organizations, the news media and motorists.

Both local panels meet on the third Wednesday of each month with Upland at 7 p.m. and Pomona at 7:30 p.m. The Pomona panel members are chairman Maynard Lenhert, Kathy Johnston, Renorah Lewis, John Muter, Shrago, David Bruce, Morgan and Mrs. Wellington.

Mental health programs get boost with funding

Mental health programs in San Bernardino County got an added boost as the county Board of Supervisors this week agreed to accept an additional $320,000 in state funds this year for such programs.

The state money will allow funding of several programs that experienced financial cutbacks earlier this year.

Several new programs will be started, including some in the West End. Robert Russell, county health care services agency administrator, told the board the additional state funds had been made available provided supervisors approved the expenditure of $35,646 in county matching funds.

The money will be used for these increased services:

—An increase in services to predelinquent and other disordered youths in the West End.

—An outreach and prevention program for senior citizens experiencing mental health problems.

—An expansion of after-care programs for mentally ill elderly persons.

—Additional funding for several mental health associations in the county, including the West Valley Mental Health Association which serves the West End.

They will be stationed in the Youth Plaza, Building 8-A.

Anyone who would like a tree to plant in his yard may drop in and pick one up, a department spokesman said. "We'll pot them for planting," he added.

League opposes water rate hike

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The League of Women Voters of Claremont has notified the Public Utilities Commission that it opposes the Southern California Water Co.'s application for a rate increase to "replace income lost to conservation."

Last week, league members learned the water company has applied for its second rate increase in a year.

"Conservation of water and energy should be rewarded and not penalized," Mary Jane Merrill, president of the league said, explaining why the league has written to the commission.

The league has asked the Public Utilities Commission to adopt a conservation rate design for local water bills and to hold a public hearing before any rate increase is adopted.

Southern California Water Co., which serves about 7,600 customers in portions of Claremont, Chino, Montclair, Pomona and Upland, was granted a 17 percent rate increase in February.

In the rate application made in August, the water company stated it expected the conservation ethic to continue and intended to encourage it.

The water company is now requesting a 19 per cent rate increase to offset an estimated 30 per cent average consumption savings.

In its letter, the league states, "We applaud the water company for its strong support of a water conservation ethic. We agree that the evidence suggests that a 30 per cent conservation reduction can be sustained after the crisis of this drought is over and that it should be sustained because of energy and water supply constraints.

"An important long-term benefit of a conservation ethic is the deferral of the need for new water supply facilities.

"A rate structure designed to promote a conservation should result in a small rate increase for those customers who conserve, and a large increase for those who do not practice conservation."

The league has also requested the Claremont and Chino areas should be separated for the purpose of rate considerations.

The League of Women Voters testified at the Public Utilities rate hearings held in Claremont last November. At that hearing, the league requested consideration of pumping zone charges to reflect the added cost of pumping water into the foothills and a summer peaking rate to reflect the higher cost of water production in summer when most of the imported water Claremont uses is consumed.

Proprietary schools. These are the 10,000 privately-owned vocational schools that serve high school graduates and train them for specific jobs. They range from correspondence schools purporting to train young authors and artists to long-established technical institutes that produce many of the nation's mechanics. Quality varies from excellent to criminally fraudulent. Talk to a school's graduates or ask for a list of employers where graduates have been placed.

Work-study. This alternative makes a lot of sense if your child basically wants to earn a college degree but also wants some work experience. It may be a necessity if you're financially strapped. A wide variety of new programs have sprung up to make it easier for students to work as well as go to college. Courses given at night are a long tradition, but some schools now offer quick lunchtime courses as well.

At Northeastern University in Boston, students can earn a degree in five years by alternating quarters in and out of work, using the school's cooperative education program with local employers. Berry College in Georgia pioneered the concept of having students pay off their tuition by working at campus-based jobs, such as farming and weaving. Some industries run their own colleges; General Motors, for example, has its own accredited university. New York and New Jersey are experimenting with state-sponsored programs aimed at giving students college credit for knowledge gained on the job or for special projects.

Occasional study. Even if a child has no desire ever to earn a college degree, specific courses can prove helpful at different stages of a career. A secretary could improve her chances for promotion by studying some bookkeeping on the side. A salesman could study a foreign language and increase his chances for landing a foreign assignment, together with the usual salary bonus.

Associate degrees. The two-year college is coming into its own. A student can usually live at home, pay an average cost of only $300 a year, and study courses that could either prepare him for a college degree elsewhere or lead to a better paying job than he might expect based on his high school skills. This approach is particularly promising for a student who shows academic promise but still hasn't made up his mind whether he wants to struggle for a professional career. The two-year graduate can go either way — directly into a paraprofessional job or on to a four-year college to finish bachelor's degree work.

ORPHANS VISIT — This group of 21 Mexican orphans and staff from the Casa de la Salvatierra in Tecate, Mexico, visited with families from the La Verne Church of the Brethren last weekend. The orphans, who range from 5 to 11 years old, were treated to a trip to the Los Angeles County Fair. They attended church services and entertained with dances and songs. Mt. Sac has class in Bible for seniors

Mt. San Antonio College's adult education program will offer a senior citizens class on the Bible this fall.

The course will deal specifically with the New Testament Gospels. Special attention will be given to the types of literature in the gospels (such as the parables) and the characters making up these New Testament dramas (Pharisees, Herod, the apostles).

The class will meet on Wednesdays from 1:30 to 3:30, for 10 weeks, starting Oct. 12. Space is provided in the library of the First Presbyterian Church, Pomona. There are no fees or costs involved. Registration will take place at the class.

The Pomona Valley Council of Churches will hold its fourth annual "Walk for the Hungry" Oct. 23, starting from the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

The project is held to raise funds to feed hungry people and support agricultural programs throughout the world. During last year's "walk," more than 3,000 persons walked to raise over $50,000.

The scope of the local program was recognized by the National Council of Churches, which presented the project its first Ecumenical Service Award.

The "walk" includes all religious groups and persons of all age groups.

Persons wanting more information may contact him by phone at 982-4103, or Audrey Lightbody, executive director of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, 622-3806.

Baptist boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Baptists in the world increased 381,797 last year to a total of 33,269,319.

Session on world hunger in 2nd week

The second session of the three-week study on world hunger will be held Sunday at the La Verne United Methodist Church from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

The study leader will be Mark Bollwinkle from the School of Theology at Claremont. He is working toward his Doctor of Ministry degree and is assistant at the Interfaith Hunger Center. He has just returned from a year in Kenya where he worked for the Methodist Church and did research on his doctoral dissertation, "The Role of Pastoral Ministry in Rural Development."

The goal of the study on world hunger is to get the facts about the underlying causes, to find some solutions to the problem, and to get people personally involved in these solutions.

Joint parish in new church

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — When the new Church of Reconciliation was dedicated near here Sept. 3, it marked a new, closer relationship for island Anglicans (Episcopalians) and Roman Catholics. It's a joint parish.

Located in Bridgeport, the ecumenical parish covers an area including some of Jamaica's poorest people. The parish is staffed by an Anglican priest and two Roman Catholic priests of the Atonement Friars.

One of them, the Rev. Martin Carter, says that while there are separate Anglican and Roman Catholic Masses, the combined parish opens a new stage in "cooperation and sharing" between the two denominations.

PUBLIC NOTICE PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED REQUEST FOR EXEMPTION DECLARATION FROM REQUIREMENTS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORTS

The Planning Commission of the City of Pomona does hereby declare and give notice that a public hearing will be held on October 12, 1977 in the City Hall Council Chambers, 505 South Garey Avenue, at 8:00 p.m. regarding a request for two exemption declarations and one categorical exemption from requirements for environmental impact reports dealing with the following proposed City Park Improvement Projects:

1. Reconstruction and lighting of tennis courts at Washington Park;
2. Lighting of tennis courts at Palomares Park
3. Replacement of fencing, backstops and repair of bleachers at Ralph Welch Park (categorical exemption); and the declaration of another action (the acquisition of land) for the future expansion of Martin Luther King Park as "not a project" which, therefore, would not require an Environmental Impact Clearance.

This request is in conjunction with an application being prepared by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department for State Funds available under the 1976-77 and 1977-78 Roberti-Z'berg Urban Open Space Grant. This is a matching grant program in which the State funds 75% and the City funds 25% of the total cost of the projects. The City is applying for $163,402 which includes the City's 25% (or $40,851.).

All persons interested in or having objection to this proposal may appear as indicated above and/or review the data, including detailed locational information, on file at the Planning Department office, 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.

Trojans rout WSU

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California's tailback tandem of Charles White and Dwight Ford combined for 246 yards and four touchdowns, and quarterback Rob Hertel passed for 182 yards Friday night as the second-ranked Trojans overpowered Washington State 41-7 in a Pacific-8 Conference football game.

White, a sophomore starter, ran for 128 yards on 27 carries and scored on runs of one and four yards. His junior understudy, Ford, amassed 118 yards on 13 carries and also scored two touchdowns on runs of 14 and 53 yards.

Deftly mixing his passes with a potent ground attack, Hertel connected on 11 of his 18 throws, including a 48-yard scoring strike to Randy Simmrin.

The Trojan defense, spearheaded by linebacker Ed Gutierrez and defensive tackle Walt Underwood, completely dominated the Cougars and their fine passer, Jack Thompson.

The Washington State quarterback entered the game as the nation's fourth leading passer, but was just 10 of 21 for 136 yards against the stingy USC defense.

He was intercepted twice, but he did provide the Cougars their only touchdown, a six-yard pass to Brian Kelly in the fourth quarter.

Ford scored his two touchdowns, White tallied one and Frank Jordan kicked the first of his two field goals, a 24-yarder, as the Trojans swept to a 24-0 lead in the first half.

The Trojans are unbeaten in four starts this fall and have a 2-0 Pac-8 mark. The Cougars, who opened with impressive victories over Nebraska and Michigan State, are now 2-2 overall and 0-1 in conference play.

The triumph extended the Trojans' winning streak to 15 games, longest in the nation, stretching back to their loss to Missouri in the 1976 opener. The victory also marked their 11th consecutive win over Washington State.

USC had entered the game a three touchdown favorite, but some observers believed the dangerous Thompson, throwing to Kelly and Mike Levenseller, might give the Trojan defense trouble.

But neither the Cougars' passing nor their rushing could challenge the USC defense, which has now given up just 27 points in four games.

Thompson's passing total was his lowest since he became the WSU starter 11 games ago, and the Cougars' rushing attack accounted for just 133 yards against the rugged Trojan defenders.

Simmrin, already the school's record-holder with at least one catch in his last 27 games, ran his string to 28, grabbing three passes for 91 yards, including the spectacular touchdown.

Jordan, who had kicked three field goals in the Trojans' 51-0 rout of TCU last Saturday, was two-of-three in this contest, making good on a 21-yarder in addition to the one from 24 yards away, and missing one from 47. He was flawless on conversions, driving five through the uprights.

Although Kelly and Levenseller ranked among the Pac-8's top receivers going into the contest, they could not shake the tenacious Trojan defenders. Kelly ended up with two catches for 39 yards and Levenseller caught just one pass for 14.

Late Giant TD nips Claremont

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Whether or not all things do in fact come to those who wait, that strategy certainly paid off for Garry Norvell Friday night.

A 10-yard touchdown pass from Ron Hughes to James Murdock and Ruben Raya's extra point kick gave Norvell's Ganesha High Giants a come-from-behind, 7-6 victory over Claremont in the San Antonio League opener for both teams at Citrus College.

The scoring pass came with 4:20 to play in the game, just two plays after Ganesha defensive end Kevin Jones recovered a Claremont fumble at the Wolfpack 10-yard line.

"That was the only way we could have won that game," said Norvell, shaking his head. "We had to have the big break.

"We couldn't do anything offensively, so I decided to just play it conservatively and hope we'd get good field position or something."

That decision was no doubt prompted largely by the second quarter, when Claremont's defense held the Giants to a net offense of minus two yards.

Few of those in attendance could have expected Ganesha to win because of a fumble. There were times in the game when the fumble seemed to be the mainstay of the Giant offensive arsenal — the Pomona school coughed the ball up six times, losing it on five occasions. But Ganesha had no turnovers in the final period.

Claremont fumbled five times, losing three.

Wolfpack kicker Doug Jollymour kicked field goals of 28 yards in the second quarter and 30 in the third after fumble recoveries by Neil Anderson and Gordon Descombes. Jollymour tried a 35-yarder to conclude Claremont's first series of the game but the ball hit the crossbar and bounced back.

After Scott McBride fell on a Ganesha fumble at the Giants' 46, the 'Pack moved to the Ganesha 2. On fourth-and-goal-to-go, Claremont's Jeff Smith nearly made it around right end but Duane Rodall dropped him for no gain.

Less than three minutes later, after another Giant fumble, defensive back Shelton Daniels broke up a Claremont pass in the end zone and the 'Pack settled for a field goal on fourth-and-seven from the 13.

Ganesha's Bennie Gooden rushed for 119 yards on 18 carries and Claremont's Jeff Smith ran up 114 yards on 21 tries. The pair accounted for most of the game's yardage, since Claremont netted 187 and Ganesha had 157.

"We might not have won if they'd had number five (injured running back Grant Warhurst)," said Norvell. "When they get him back, they'll be mighty tough."

Ganesha quarterback Hughes completed three of six passes for 30 yards while Claremont's Mike Pirolo hit four of 14 for 43 yards. There were no interceptions.

Claremont had the ball for 51 plays and made eight first downs. Ganesha earned seven first downs — six in the second half — on only 41 plays.

Claremont (1-2) will meet Pomona at Mt. San Antonio College Thursday and the Giants (3-0) will host Chino at Cal Poly Friday.

MUSTANG COMPLETION

Walnut High quarterback Steve Green (10) prepares to hit halfback Jim Schoulten (24) with a screen pass good for 10 yards in first half action of Mustangs' game at Bonita High Friday night. Walnut had to struggle to beat the Bearcats, 17-0.

Garvey delivers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve Garvey's one-out single scored Jerry Grote from second base in the 14th inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Houston Astros 6-5 Thursday night.

Grote opened the 14th by drawing a walk and moved to second on Vic Davalillo's single off loser Bo McLaughlin, 4-7, setting the stage for Garvey's game-winning hit between short and third.

Dennis Lewallyn, 3-0, the fifth Dodgers pitcher, gained the victory in a game which saw 49 players used — 24 by the Dodgers and 25 by the Astros.

The Astros had tied the game in the top of the ninth on pinchhit singles by Bob Watson and Art Howe and an RBI grounder by pinch-hitter Wilbur Howard.

Don Sutton, in his final tuneup for his second-game start in the National League playoffs, worked seven innings, allowing four runs on nine hits. He left the game trailing 4-3, but the Dodgers scored twice in the seventh, on run-scoring singles by Lee Lacy and Davalillo.

Terry Puhl collected four of the Astros' 10 hits, including a triple, double and two singles. Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a two-run double.

Damien hangs on to down Devils

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Damien High used some clutch defense to make a third-quarter Steve Campbell touchdown stand up as the difference in a 6-0 blanking of Pomona Friday night.

The game played at Mt. San Antonio College marked the San Antonio League opener for both teams. Damien improves its overall record to 2-1 while Pomona drops to 0-3.

The Devils have now dropped 12 straight games including a winless (0-9) season last year.

Damien opened defense of its co-championship with the win while the other half of the co-title, Garey, lost its SAL opener.

The Spartan secondary picked off six passes thrown by Devil quarterback Darrell Keepers. Five of the interceptions came when the hosts were trying to mount a drive.

The other Damien interception came in the third quarter to set up the only score of the game at the 3:50 mark.

Spartan defensive back Darrell Wilson intercepted Keeper's pass on the Pomona 40 and raced to the 11-yard line. Damien was penalized 15 yards for clipping on the run back putting the ball on the 26.

Campbell did it all by himself gaining 16 and three yards on respective runs to set up his six-yard TD run. Mike Sullivan's kick for the extra point was wide to the left.

Pomona nearly had a touchdown in the first quarter when Mitchell Hall returned an interception 40 yards to paydirt only to have it called back on a clipping penalty.

Pomona's Pat Reynolds came up short on a 40-yard field goal attempt with 1:02 left in the first quarter.

Following that missed field goal, Pomona marched from its own 20 to the Spartan four-yard line only to have Mike Raffee intercept Keepers and return it to his own 10.

It was not a good night for quarterbacks as Keepers completed only eight-of-24 attempts for 107 yards. Damien signal caller Dan Marconi hit on 11-of-28 for 100 yards and was intercepted once.

Damien's next SAL opponent will be Montclair. That game will be played at Damien Friday night. Pomona will try to snap its losing skid Thursday night when it meets Claremont at MSAC.

Walnut rallies for win

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Walnut High scored three times in the fourth quarter to down Bonita High, 17-0, Friday night on the Bearcats' home turf.

Walnut racked up 420 offensive yards to Bonita's 128 but the Mustangs failed to punch the ball across the goal line until four minutes into the fourth quarter.

Running backs Dave Woronkiewicz and Tony Rossi combined for 262 ground yards against the Bearcat defense. But Bonita's defense was stingy with the yardage inside the 10-yard line. Walnut was stopped twice inside the 10 and Bonita also stopped two other drives on interceptions.

Walnut came within four yards of a first half touchdown as the clock ran out. Walnut used a bit of razzle-dazzle on Bonita to march the ball up the field from their own seven yard line. The Mustangs used a pass reception and lateral as Jim Schoulten dumped the ball off to Rossi for a total of 18 yards. Woronkiewicz ran 24 yards and Steve Green's 30-yard pass put the ball on the four. But Green was stopped short of a TD by Bonita's Greg Lopez.

At the end of the third quarter, Woronkiewicz was stopped by Lopez on the Bearcats' five-yard line.

Rossi finally put Walnut on the board with a two-yard TD burst in the fourth quarter. Bonita's defense reluctantly gave in as the Mustangs' offensive punch finally wore down the Bearcats' defensive personnel.

Bonita's running game was held to 92 yards by the Walnut defense. The Bearcats' longest run from scrimmage came early in the game when Bob Clark raced 16 yards. Bonita was limited to 1.7 yards on 13 running plays in the second half as Walnut stacked the line knowing that Bonita intended to run.

Walnut was "cheating" on the Bearcats as they had eight and nine men on the line of scrimmage. Bonita's Cory Miller only attempted one pass in the first half so Walnut figured that Bonita was going to stay on the ground.

Clark was called upon for field goal tries of 57, 46 and 30 yards but he missed all three attempts.

Walnut will face San Dimas Friday at 7:30 p.m. while Bonita hosts Royal Oak.

From PB Wire Services

The Boston Red Sox kept their slim American League East title hopes alive Friday night by outlasting Baltimore 11-10 at Fenway Park while Detroit was beating the New York Yankees, 5-2.

The loss for the Yanks prevented the New Yorkers from clinching the A.L. East flag outright. N.Y. clinched a title tie earlier this week but has since lost to Cleveland and the Tigers.

Jim Rice led Boston with two doubles, two singles and five RBIs. His single in the seventh scored Ted Cox and broke a 7-7 tie.

Ace reliever Bill Campbell, the Ganesha High grad, made his 69th appearance of the season for Boston and boosted his record to 13-8. Campbell bailed out Jim Willoughby in the sixth.

RBI hits by Ken Singleton, Lee May and Eddie Murray kept Baltimore alive in the ninth and kayoed Campbell, but Bob Stanley came on to strike out Elliott Maddox and retire Al Bumbry on a grounder to end the game.

At New York, Rusty Staub drove in three runs and southpaw John Hiller kept the big Yankee bats at bay as the Tigers kept N.Y. from clinching its second straight A.L. East pennant.

Both the Yankees and the Red Sox have two games remaining this weekend. The Yanks can clinch with a victory or a Bosox loss.

Cowboys' Bertschinger stars in 20-12 triumph

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Chino High Cowboys got an exceptional effort out of tailback Mike Bertschinger to gain their first win in San Antonio League play Friday night, 20-12, over the Garey Vikings.

The host Cowboys practically gave Bertschinger the ball on every play, as he carried 39 times for 203 yards and three touchdowns. What made the 6-0, 180-pound senior so incredible in his performance was the fact that he lost four contact lenses during the course of the action.

Chino coach Jim Rawls was pleased with Bertschinger's great game, but also noted that his offensive line was doing a fine job opening up the holes.

"Bertschinger had a great game," said Rawls. "I think, though, that we have the best offensive line around. That group includes center Hector Martinez, guard Sam Beebe, and tackles Ben Kramer and Gary Niekerk.

"They (the Vikings) were much quicker than we were, but I felt that we were much more physical. The leadership of Dan Reyes at quarterback made a big difference tonight. Middle linebacker Alton Rivera did a good job holding our defense together."

Reyes, who returned from an injury, completed three passes in seven attempts for 83 yards and had one interception.

The Vikings (0-1) opened the scoring just 47 seconds into the contest, as James Moore broke free on a counter play, cut across the grain, and dashed 85 yards for the touchdown.

With the extra point failing, Garey took a 6-0 lead.

Another big Garey play came on quarterback Anthony Clinton's perfect pass to David Forte for a 75-yard scoring strike. Clinton came up short in his try for two points.

Neither team reached the end zone in the third quarter, but early in the final frame Bertschinger ran the ball in from three yards out. The extra point kick was wide.

Clinton was six of nine for 168 yards via the air. The Vikings got 141 yards on the ground, with over half of that total coming on Moore's big gainer.

Cavs beat Upland

By KEITH LAIR
PB Correspondent

Montclair High halfback Kent Gurney scored one touchdown and added a field goal as he paced the Cavaliers to a 17-0 shutout over visiting Upland High Friday night.

Gurney galloped from 22 yards out to score the first touchdown of the evening, in which he dashed for a total of 106 yards in 15 carries.

The Highlanders looked as though they were on their way to an opening score when Chris Molinar and Dick Chapman ran 38 and 16 yard gains respectively to put the ball on the 13 yard line. From there Upland quarterback Richard Pomerski threw his first of three interceptions to Pat Thomas.

Thomas quickly lateralled to Steve Pace, who sped downfield for a 53-yard pick-up. A personal foul by the Scots moved the ball further, setting it on the Highlander 23.

Runs by Gurney brought the ball to the nine, but a holding penalty returned the ball back to the 23. The Cavs drive then stalled, and Gurney booted a 37-card field goal to put Montclair on top 3-0.

An 18-yard punt by Upland's Rick Votaw set up the Cavaliers second score. Two plays later, Gurney scored on a 22-yard outburst.

The Cavs final score came in the third quarter when they marched the ball 42 yards in a sub-two minute drive. The score came on a 17-yard pass from Steve Jetton to Pace.

Royals down Angels again

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals, riding a home run and a pair of doubles by Hal McRae, beat the California Angels 8-5 Friday night.

The victory was the Royals' 101st of the season, a record by an expansion team. The old mark was set by the 1969 New York Mets.

McRae led Kansas City's 13-hit attack, driving in three runs. The Royals' designated hitter belted his 21st homer of the season in the second inning, just before Amos Otis connected for his 17th.

Marty Pattin, hurling the final five innings in relief of Paul Splittorff and George Throop, picked up his 10th victory against three losses. The defeat went to California starter Ken Brett, 13-14.

Prince Vlad posts upset

Prince Vlad had won only one of his previous five starts prior to surprising even-money favorite Baker's Belief in the two-year olds attraction. Prince Vlad paid $46.40 to win.

Jockey Stallings was capturing his second win of the day. Earlier, he also won the $22,500 Pomona Appaloosa Futurity aboard heavily favored Olympic Time.

The Fair concludes it successful 1977 season today with the 30th running of the $40,000-added Pomona Handicap for older horses at a mile and one-eighth. First post time is 1 p.m.

Ontario holds on

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Scrappy San Dimas (0-3) gave undefeated Ontario (3-0) a good battle before bowing, 19-13 at Chaffey High Friday night.

The Saints scored first and held a 6-0 lead at 7:50 into the contest. But the Jaguars roared back to convert three first-half interceptions into touchdowns.

The Saints recovered an Ontario fumble late in the second half and converted that miscue into a TD to make it close, 19-13 with 2:54 remaining.

But the Jags controlled the ball the rest of the time and probably could have scored again if they hadn't chose to run out the clock.

"We felt in effect we gave it away," said San Dimas coach Don Warhurst. "But we're young and we're coming. We played a lot better this week and I was impressed with our defense."

The Saints' defense kept Ontario's Tom Jefferson from breaking any long runs. Jefferson, who had rushed for 203 and 208 yards in the Jags' first two games, was held to 126 yards in 28 carries Friday night.

Ontario coach Terry Roche wasn't happy with his teams' performance.

"We stunk," he said. "Our defense wasn't so bad, but the offense was lethargic . . . just going through the motions. There were just too many mental mistakes."

On their first possession, the Saints drove 76 yards in seven plays plus two penalties to score. Quarterback Von Suchanek hit on four of six passes and connected with wide receiver Tom Ruffin for the final 16 yards.

But on San Dimas' second possession, Ontario's Jerry Cutbirth picked off a Suchanek aerial at the Saints' 38 and went all the way in for a TD.

On the second play of the Saints' third possession, Douglas Diggs snared an errant pass at Ontario's 43 and returned it to the San Dimas 29.

With Jefferson carrying five of six times, the Jags marched to paydirt.

Ontario's Steve Perez intercepted another pass at midfield late in the half. Five plays later, Perez caught Sonny Medina's 18-yard pass for a touchdown.

It was 19-6 at the half and remained that way until late in the fourth quarter when San Dimas' Jim Curry recovered an Ontario fumbled at the Jags' 26. Two plays later, Suchanek passed 20 yards to Tom Lloyd for the final score.

The Saints hope to have Mike Nunley back in two weeks.

Nunley was given a medical clearance this week, but doesn't have good lateral movement yet.

R.O. too much for Alta Loma

By CHARLES BENTLEY
PB Correspondent

Royal Oak High scored 24 points in the first half while holding Alta Loma High to just 18 total yards offensively as the Romans ran over the visiting Braves 24-8.

In the Hacienda League opener for both schools, Royal Oak's quarterback Jeff Strycula ran for 54 yards on 14 carries and passed for 28 more on a single completion, along with scoring eight points on a touchdown and an extra point.

But the big ground gainer for the Romans was junior halfback Jack Bron, who ran for 103 yards on 11 carries before exiting the game early in the fourth quarter.

From the start of the game, Royal Oak dominated play, recovering an Alta Loma fumble on the initial kick off. But the Braves' defense countered with an interception just two plays later to keep the Romans out of the end zone.

Head Coach Leonard Mussack's squad kept their cool, though, and forced the Braves to punt just three downs later, giving Royal Oak excellent field position on the Alta Loma 38 yard line.

It then took the Roman's but ten plays to take the ball into the end zone to score the games first touchdown. Following a Strycula run for the two point convertion, the score was 8-0 in favor of Royal Oak.

With 8:36 remaining in the first half, Strycula passed 16 yards to Bill Munafo in the end zone to give the Romans what would turn out to be the winning touchdown.

Alta Loma struggled through three quarters of offensive drought until with less than a minute left in the fourth quarter, reserve quarterback Tom Munoz passed to Moises Hill in the end zone to give the Braves their only score of the night.

Royal Oak ran over the Braves offense all night, with the Romans' final rushing statistics setting at an impressive 243 yards on 48 carries, along with 44 yards on two completions through the air.

Alta Loma ran for only 17 yards on 16 carries, along with 54 yards passing on four completions for 71 yards total offense, as compared to the Romans' 287 total yards.

Alta Loma will entertain Sierra Vista next Friday at Chaffey College, while Royal Oak will be at Bonita the same night.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League denied Friday a request by the New York Yankees to add a 25th player to its playoff roster and ruled the Yanks will be limited to 24 if they make it to the championship series.

AL President Lee MacPhail turned down a New York request to add either Dave Kingman or Dell Alston to their eligibility list as a replacement for outfielder Carlos May, who was with the Yankees all season until they sold him to the California Angels Sept. 16.

Ali must defend crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Norton was told again Friday that Muhammad Ali must defend next year against the winner of the Norton-Jimmy Young fight Nov. 5 at Las Vegas, Nev., or be stripped of the title by the World Boxing Council.

Watson rallies

Tigers' defense steals the show

Chaffey High used an airtight defense Friday night to blank host Fontana High 21-0 in the Citrus Belt League opener for both schools.

In an Olympic League opener, Ontario Christian had an easy time of it with a 25-6 win at Los Angeles Lutheran.

Chaffey, now 2-1 on the year, limited the usually effective Fohi attack to a net of 107 yards Friday in posting the triumph.

Chaffey had only 183 yards in total offense itself, but the Tigers were able to cash in on a couple Steeler mistakes for scores.

Running back Steve Lehor paced the Chaffey offense with two touchdowns and a two-point PAT conversion. The other Tiger tally came in the final quarter as Dan Olivera recovered a Fontana fumble and ran it back 24 yards for the TD.

Defensive back Todd Logue led the Tiger defensive effort with two interceptions to stop Fontana drives.

OCHS Garrett Bosman ran for 121 yards on 21 carries and scored twice to pace the Knights.

Poly plays classy foe

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Jim Jones' big goal at Cal Poly is to build a strong winning tradition similar to what he accomplished at South Hills High.

In his seven years at Davis, Sochor has compiled a 54-16-2 record, which rates second nationally among NCAA Division II schools for coaches with fives years or more on the job.

So Jones knows his winless Broncos (0-2) have their hands full tonight in the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

"I guess we have to fight class with more class," Jones said about this evening's rugged assignment.

Thanks to a bye last week, Jones got a look at Davis in person when the Aggies edged Puget Sound, 16-14, before a capacity crowd of 7,400 to celebrate the Aggies' 22nd victory in their last 23 home games.

"I was very impressed with their overall organization," Jones said. "Davis has an excellent team. It is very experienced and is used to winning. We are looking forward to playing such a class team and it's great to be home."

Poly's first two games were on the road at Puget Sound (7-0) and San Francisco State (21-18) and the experience of traveling made it extra tough for a team with so many new faces.

"Having a bye and playing at home helped our preparation for this game," Jones said. "Our practices have been excellent this week with good spirit."

Davis has enjoyed victories over Cal Lutheran (24-9) and Puget Sound, a common foe for tonight's opponents.

The Aggies' main strength is their defense against the rush, allowing only a total of 85 yards on the ground in two games to rank second nationally behind only Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

So it appears Poly will again have a rough time getting a running attack going as evidenced by an average of only 50.5 yards per game.

Offensively, UCD will be directed by junior quarterback Mike Moroski, who has completed 25 of 55 passes for 278 yards, and running back Scott Thorne, who has rushed for 135 yards on 28 carries.

Jones, who has three quarterbacks to work with, said junior Sammy Ross, who missed the San Francisco game because of a finger injury, will open at the QB spot tonight. But junior Steve Taylor and freshman Gordy Bohannon may also see action.

Poly's top threat is wide receiver Teddy Myles, who has caught 12 passes for 104 yards.

Sochor, who has plenty of experience on defense but a lot of new people on offense, isn't sure what to expect tonight.

"We haven't scouted Poly," he said, "and because of the coaching staff, we can't go by last year's film. They're bigger than Puget Sound and run the same offense (option)."

BRONC BUSTERS — This is Davis' first visit to Pomona since 1968. Poly enjoys a 3-1 edge in the series but dropped a 28-7 decision at Davis last year.

Davis is included in this week's NCAA Division 11 national rankings as are four other Poly opponents. Northern Arizona, next week's foe, ranks eighth while Davis, SLO, Santa Clara and Cal State Hayward all earned votes. Overall, Poly's opponents have compiled a 19-8 record with five of the losses being to Division 1 teams.

Bruins can't look ahead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Under ordinary circumstances, UCLA and Iowa might both be looking ahead when they square off in an intersectional college football game tonight.

The Bruins open their Pacific-8 Conference schedule at Stanford next Saturday while the Hawkeyes resume play in the Big Ten against Minnesota the same day.

But considering what happened last week, it's likely the teams will concentrate on the current business at hand when they collide at the Coliseum.

The host Bruins, 1-2, will try to rebound from the surprising 27-13 setback they suffered at Minnesota last Saturday while the Hawkeyes, 2-1, were stunned by visiting Arizona 41-7 after winning their first two games.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the game, which starts at 7 p.m., PDT.

The Bruins and Hawkeyes will be meeting for the seventh time. UCLA has a 5-1 record. Iowa won the last time the teams played, 21-10 in 1974, giving Bob Commings his first victory as the school's head coach.

UCLA and Iowa have more in common than the shocking losses they experienced in their most recent efforts. Both are young teams, both have been hit hard by injuries, and each has scored 43 points while allowing 51 this fall.

The Bruins could be without as many as seven players considered as key performers before the season began. Running back Theotis Brown, punter-placekicker Frank Corral and defensive backs Phil Hubbard and Mike Molina are out indefinitely, while defensive linemen Manu Tuaisosopo, Steve Tetrick and Dave Morton are all listed as questionable performers.

Iowa, meanwhile, will go with freshman Bob Commings, Jr., the coach's son, as its starting quarterback and sophomore Tom Renn at tailback, both of whom were listed as third-stringers prior to the season but elevated to starting roles because of injuries.

Renn has carried the ball just once this season. Commings has completed 17 of 32 passes for 132 yards.

Quarterbacks Tom McLaughlin and Doug Piro and tailbacks Dennis Mosley and Ernie Sheeler are all sidelined. In addition, starting fullback Jon Lazar, who missed the Arizona game with an ankle sprain, may not play. He would be replaced by junior Jim Arkeilpane.

Owens has gained 218 yards in 50 carries. Bashore has completed 24 of 43 passes for 347 yards.

Coach Joe Paterno, whose young Penn State team broke away from a 3-3 halftime standoff to beat Maryland 27-9: "They could have lost their poise and rolled over, but they showed determination and poise."

Local JCs needing wins

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio and Citrus, two teams badly in need of a win prior to entering conference action, will hit to road tonight to square off against winless foes.

MSAC (1-2) will travel to Los Angeles to play Harbor JC (0-3). Citrus (0-2) will trek to Whittier College, where the Owls will meet Rio Hondo (0-1-1). Both those games will start at 7:30 p.m.

The Mounties, who started the year with an impressive 34-24 win over Rio Hondo, are a team looking for consistency going into tonight's game at Harbor.

MSAC opened impressively with a 35-24 win over Rio Hondo, but then dropped a 27-24 decision to Pasadena and last week was unimpressive in a 17-7 defeat at Glendale.

According to Mountie coach Mal Eaton, his team will need to take the best of each of their previous outings and combine that tonight to get back into the win column.

Harbor is coming off a 51-0 loss at home to San Diego Mesa, but the Seahawks traditionally play MSAC close and Eaton feels they are a solid team, at least on paper.

"Harbor is a big physical team with an explosive offense," said Eaton. "They play good defense and we've got to play our best game of the year so far to beat them."

Eaton is concerned with his team's motivation, or lack of it, based on last week's loss at Glendale. However, getting his team up for Harbor might not be a problem, as MSAC needs a win badly going into the always rugged South Coast Conference schedule.

Eaton indicated that freshman quarterback Butch Stocking will start again this week with Maxie Hamilton and Stan Webster joining him in the backfield. Eaton is hoping the young signal caller can get the potentially explosive MSAC offense untracked.

Eaton's troups also need to come up with a big game on defense. They currently rank last among SCC schools in that department.

Citrus is coming off a bye last week. The Owls took their lumps vs. potent foes Fullerton and Long Beach, but hope for better things tonight vs. Rio Hondo.

Tradition is on the Owls' side in the clash. Citrus has won four of the previous five games with Rio Hondo, outscoring the Roadrunners 54-6 in the last two meetings.

Strycula plans to start an offensive backfield of Ken Eriksen at quarterback and Charles Cole and Barry McManus at the running back spots vs. Rio Hondo. All three are freshman.

Cole, the former Pomona High star, is the Owls' leading rusher after two games with 98 yards on 31 carries. McManus, from South Hills, has 74 yards on 20 totes.

QB Eriksen, from Glendora High, has looked sharp at times in the Owls' two losses, having hit on 18 of 30 aerials for 165 yards.

Hill jumps to 58th place

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mike Hill, winner of the Ohio Kings Island Open and its $30,000 first prize, moved from 97th place to 58th, but there was little change in the top 10, according to figures released Tuesday by the Professional Golfers Association.

Ben Crenshaw, who tied for third at Kings Island and won $8,850, advanced from 16th to 10th, pushing Jerry McGee into the 11th spot.

Tom Watson, who did not play in Ohio, still leads golf's money winners with $305,428, followed by Jack Nicklaus, $284,509, Lanny Wadkins, $243,795, Tom Weiskopf, $197,639, and Bruce Lietzke, $194,597 is fifth.

La Verne seeks win vs. lowly Sagehens

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne College will likely record its first football victory tonight. But Claremont-Mudd and Pomona-Pitzer will find it difficult to avoid their second losses.

The action gets underway at 1:30 this afternoon when C-M hosts perennial power, Cal Lutheran. Pomona-Pitzer hosts La Verne at 7:30 this evening.

The last three years, coach John Zinda's Stags have given CLC all it could handle the first half. But the Kingsmen's superior manpower has taken its toll in the last two quarters.

The Stags have either led or tied CLC through most of the first half. Last week, while C-M was losing 16-6 at St. Marys', Cal Lutheran was pounding SCIAC power Redlands, 27-3.

"Our team really came together in beating Redlands," said CLC coach Bob Shoup. "I just hope we don't let down too much. The last time we were sky high, we came down to a very poor effort the next game."

Zinda will be looking for another good defensive effort from his team plus a little better parity on kicks.

"Out defense did a super job," said Zinda. St. Mary's got the ball on the 50-yard line every time and we started inside our 20. They averaged 49 yards on punts and we averaged 26."

To upset CLC, Zinda needs another outstanding efffort from his defense and another good offensive performance by Jimmy Reed who gained 136 yards.

Nither coach Roland Ortmayer of La Verne or coach Walt Ambord of P-P will say who will start at quarterback in their game.

"I'm looking at the quarterback situation in view of five interceptions last week," commented Ortmayer. "I won't make a decision until the last minute," said Ambord.

Ortmayer was very disappointed in his offense last week. "We really didn't play very well," he said. I figured we'd score three and possibly four touchdowns."

The Leos held Whittier to 211 yards but were under 200 yards themselves. Running backs Brad Frick (58) and Ben Morrow (29) netted only 87 yards between them.

Don Lugo hosts Webb at Chino

John Monger and his Don Antonio Lugo High football team - received a rough introduction to varsity competition last week — a 35-14 loss to Lutheran High of Orange.

"We learned a lot last week," said Monger, who saw his 22-game winning streak snapped. "They were a lot bigger and more physical than we are."

The Conquistadores will get their second taste of varsity action tonight when they host Webb at Chino High at 7:30 p.m.

Fullback Manuel Villalobos and linebacker Steve Moore were injured in the first quarter of last week's game but will be back in action tonight. "It was rough because they back each other up at those two positions," Monger said.

Unfortunately, starting defensive tackle Alan Bertschinger broke his hand and backup center John Santos injured his knee during practice this week. Santos is out for the year and Bertschinger will be replaced for several weeks by Danny Crume.

"I was pleased with our offense last week," Monger said, "but our defense wasn't aggressive — we just couldn't stop them."

Webb opened its season last week with a 27-6 loss to Big Bear, the seventh-ranked team in the Desert-Mountain Conference (formerly the 1A Division).

"Webb is pretty physical and we respect them," said Monger. "Of course we're going to respect everybody every week. We knew what we were getting into (going varsity), and we can't complain."

Webb's leading threats are halfback John Richards and quarterback Kerry Binsinger, both of whom play defensive back as well.

In other action tonight, Lutheran High of La Verne will host Irvine at Damien High at 8 o'clock and American Christian will visit Huntington Valley Christian at 7 p.m.

A.L. hosts C-C meet

Alta Loma High will host the annual Chaffey District Cross Country Meet today beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The five Chaffey District high schools — Alta Loma, Chaffey, Montclair, Ontario and Upland — plus Chino make up the six-team field.

There will be four races. Boys will run three miles on the varsity, junior varsity and frosh-soph levels and girls will compete over two miles.

Upland's Gary Borbon, Alta Loma's Randy Brown and Ontario's Jimmy Marquez are among the top individuals entered.

Alta Loma won all three boys' races last year but Upland, new to the meet this year, is expected to provide stiff competition for the Braves.

Diamond Bar clubs post shutout wins

Three Diamond Bar Pop Warner youth football teams enjoyed shutout victories in the Mt. Baldy Conference last weekend.

The Tough Guys (tiny tots) blanked the Ontario Jets, 6-0; the Banditos (jr. pee wee) stopped the Ontario Bears, 38-0; and the Gauchos (jr. midget) beat the Fontana Lions, 28-0.

Todd Carcelli scored the touchdown for the Tough Guys, who have recorded three straight shutouts. Defensive standouts were Kraig Washington, Sean Layton, Ken Schaffer, Greg Tennyson, Scott Hartman and Carcelli.

The Banditos rolled up 343 offensive yards in their win with Emmet Downs (64 yards) and Reggie Williams (69) leading the attack. The defense allowed only two first downs in winning their third game without a loss.

Craig Stokes threw for three touchdowns to lead the undefeated Gauchos (2-0) with Richie Oseguera catching two of the TD passes and Gilbert Gabriel one. Kirk Washington passed for the fourth TD to Lamont Chambliss. David Youngwirth and Steve Kumpe kicked the extra points. Kim Greeley and Mike Lenahan led the defense with seven and six tackles respectively

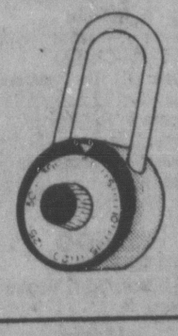
Q. "HOW DOES A COMBINATION LOCK WORK?"

PATTY SACKETT SHERIDAN, WY

A. TURNING THE DIAL OF A COMBINATION LOCK IN THE RIGHT ORDER OF NUMBERS ARRANGES A SET OF TUMBLERS INSIDE THE LOCK SO THAT THE LOCK BOLT CAN BE RELEASED



DICK ROGERS

Some locks don't need a key to open them. They are called combination, or dial, locks, because a person must turn a dial in the right combination of numbers to unlock them.

Each turn of the dial makes a set of tumblers or wheels inside the lock move into the right positions so that the lock bolt inside is released.

A dial on a combination lock is usually marked from 1 to 100. The average combination lock may have several thousand possible combinations, of which only one will open the lock.

To fasten the lock, the dial is merely spun round to scramble the arrangement of the tumblers.

Combination locks are often used on safes, since any key lock can be picked (unlocked) by an expert. Some bank vaults have time locks. A clock mechanism in the vault door permits persons to open the vault only at a certain time, even if they know the combination.

Pomona, California ■ Saturday, October 1, 1977

Claremont Community School of Music. . .

Story on pages 6-7

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

There's no doubt about it! History definitely does repeat itself. Over 100 years ago, in the summer of 1875, the few people then living in Pomona were experiencing a serious water shortage. We learn of this from statements M A Marshall, one of Pomona's first settlers, made to a Daily Progress reporter in 1888.

The troubles people were having in 1875, and the schemes to which they were compelled to resort because of the 3-year drought would amaze you," he recalled.

But Pomonans managed to live through that 3-year dry spell and shortly were blessed with an abundance of water. A good thing, too, for by 1888 there was more of a need for water in this city than ever before. A natural result of the fact that, as reported in The Pomona Progress on June 28, 1888: — "A Prohibition Club was organized in Pomona last Saturday evening."

Yes, with the water situation under control, Pomonans were doing things in a big way by 1888. And what was more, they were justly proud of their accomplishments which were placing this city right up in the forefront with the largest cities in Southern California. In proof there of, on July 5, 1888, The Pomona Progress pridefully pointed out:

"The Pomona people subscribed $587 for the celebration of the Fourth in this place. The sum of only $610 was subscribed in the City of Los Angeles.

CHESS LORE

One of the very best U.S. chess writer is Irving Chernev. Two of his books, "Winning Chess" (co-authored with Fred Reinfeld) and "Logical Chess Move by Move," have been particular favorites with hundreds of my students. And "Invitation to Chess" has set sales records for an introductory chess book.

Personally, I have always admired his ability to isolate the most important concepts and present them with lucidity and flair.

Irving Chernev's most recent book, "Wonders and Curiosities of Chess" — Dover 1974, is a repository of anecdotes, oddities and historic games, as the following samples will indicate:

CHESS AND INSANITY

In 1850 an old passion for chess awoke in Szechenyi (founder of the Magyar Academy) and took an insane character. It became necessary to pay a poor student to play with him for 10 or 12 hours at a time.

BALD HEADS WIN MATCH

In 1891 a team match was played at the Manhattan Chess Club between the bald-headed members and the full-haired members. The bald heads won 14-11.

THE SAUNTON KNIGHT

WHO WAS WORLD CHAMPION?

Steinitz and Zukertort were once present at a dinner where a toast was proposed to the Chess Champion of the World.

Both players stood up in response!

RARE TEAKETTLE

Stamps in the news

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

It's time to do your U.S. Christmas stamp shopping.

The two 1977 U.S. Christmas stamps will be issued Oct. 21 in separate locations. Both are being printed in the regular stamp size rather than the standard commemorative size in order to reduce the cost of the printing due to the popularity of the annual Yule set. Both are 13-centers.

One stamp will show Gen. George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge during the winter of 1777-1778. It will be issued at Valley Forge, Pa. The design is based on a painting by J.C. Leyendecker which appeared as a Saturday Evening Post cover in 1935.

The second stamp will feature holiday mail in a rural mailbox against a snowy backgound. This stamp will have its first day location at Omaha.

If you prefer to affix your own stamps, you are reminded to place them in the upper right corner of the envelope with your return address on the right side near the bottom. Envelopes, postmarked no later than Nov. 5, should be forwarded to "First Day Cancellations, Postmaster, Valley Forge, PA 19481" (or "Omaha, NE 68108" for the mailbox stamp) for cancellations and return by mail. No remittance is required.

For the USPS affixing stamps, send your envelopes properly addressed for return, to: "Valley Forge Stamp, Postmaster, Valley Forge, PA 19481" or "Mailbox Stamp, Postmaster, Omaha, NE 68108" with 13 cents remittance per stamp (in money order not cash). ORDERS MUST BE POSTMARKED NO LATER THAN NOV. 5.

Very old copper teakettle valued

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: I would appreciate knowing the value and any information you can give me about this very old teakettle, made of copper. It stands 12 inches high (Top of handle), is 7 inches in diameter on the bottom and flares to 10 inches at the shoulder. It is marked ADAM WOLF on the handle. Are signed teakettles rare? Mrs. M.M.B.

ANSWER: No, as more copper teakettles are signed than any of the other products of the American coppersmith. They were regarded as an art form by the coppersmiths who made them and, in the tradition of men who cared enough to create an attractive object, they signed them proudly — usually on the broad flat handle.

Although it isn't known which objects were in the greatest demand during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, many experts feel that teakettles topped the list since more have survived than any other form. Forms varied, depending upon the place and period of manufacture, but the greatest variation was in size. Even though a variety of small teakettles were made with a diameter of less than six inches, the greatest number produced are within the eight-to-eleven-inch range, with a few larger ones in the twelve-inch size. Early copper teakettles were made in America from around 1735 until the mid 1800s. Signed examples the size of your teakettle carry price tags ranging from the $300-$375 figure.

QUESTION: Many years ago my grandmother (I'm 80) gave me a beautiful woven bedspread. It was dark blue with fringe on three sides, and was made for a large bed. I believe the woven design is known as "Lover's Knot."

My grandmother raised the sheep for the wool, made the blue dye and designed this bedspread. It is in excellent condition as it has had very little usage. It was given to me as a wedding present. Could you advise me of the value? Mrs. W.H.G.

QUESTION: Please explain why the interest in old oak toilet seats. I've operated a salvage yard for 16 years, never having a call for such an item until this year. Do these have an antique value? What are people using such things for? J. McN.

ANSWER: For the purpose they were intended to be used for. Presently refinished oak toilet seats are very much in demand. They sell in antique shops from about $30-$45.

Y-Teens enlisting activists

Throughout the country, Y-Teens are on the move, among them the teens in the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley. They are inviting other teen women throughout this area to join them in their program of action during National Y-Teen Week, Oct. 9 to 15.

These young women are moving up fast through the ranks of the YWCA and are working in partnership with adults to eliminate racism and sexism. They are representing themselves and other Y-Teens on policy-making committees (both local and national), and on the advisory board of the YWCA's official news publication, "Interchange."

A student at Ganesha High School, Cheryl James, serves on the local YWCA's board of directors. Laura Lee, also from Ganesha High School, represented teens at the National Teen Organization (NYO) Action Assembly held in August at UC San Diego where the two issues for action were Juvenile Justice and Youth Employment.

Action is the key characteristic of the young women who involve themselves in the work of the YWCA and its fight for peace, justice, freedom and dignity for all people.

Y-Teen Week is a good time for teen women of Diamond Bar, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland. Chino and Alta Loma to visit the YWCA office at 1787 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, and see how the Y-Teens are moving on up in the YWCA.

Fiery radicalism of last decade waned?

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer

On the dawn of a new academic year, far away in time from a riotous decade of campus unrest, a portrait is emerging of the California university student of 1977. It's an image of realism, not idealism.

The picture, drawn by student leaders, educators and administrators, shows that the fiery radicalism of a decade ago is gone. But some believe the right spark could again light at least a flickering flame of activism.

"Young people today are much more serious-minded," said U.S. Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, 71, made famous beyond his academic renown as a semanticist when he stood up to angry students at San Francisco State University in 1968.

Students today, he said, "believe in the rights of individuals to freedom of speech, freedom of expression and continuation of their education."

Clark Kerr, 66, fired by regents as University of California president shortly after Ronald Reagan became governor in 1967, says students are now concerned with finding jobs.

Chancellor Albert H. Bowker, of 28,500-student UC-Berkeley, a hot-bed of opposition to the Vietnam war, says there "appears to be more emphasis now on preparation for employment and more recognition of the job problems."

"People are washed out," agrees Berry Grey, 22-year-old senior and city editor of UCLA's Daily Bruin. "It's passe. People are more interested in themselves and what kind of job they're going to get."

Despite this peaceful, hardworking image, there are those who predict students will resume demonstrating this year, again over what many see as moral issues.

Stanford University Vice President Robert W. Rosenzweig predicts problems this fall on his 11,500-student campus over university investments in apartheid-troubled South Africa.

"There's no doubt in my mind about that," he said. "The organization is in place...plans are being made by the activists." He believes, nevertheless, that this leadership realizes the value of peaceful protest.

University of California campuses like Berkeley and Santa Cruz, which were involved in demonstrations on the same subject last spring, could face similar action this year.

And there are other reasons for campus concern. Ned V. Joy, associate vice president for academic affairs at 31,000-student San Diego State University, sees "an air of cynicism, of trying to beat the system now, of getting ahead."

These and other campus figures were asked to compare today's college student to those of the fiery days of the protest era.

Almost without exception, interviews began with a trip back in time, back to the surging mobs, the flailing clubs, the fire bombs, the strident slogans of "Off the pigs!" "Hell no, we won't go!" and "Shut it down!"

The date was Oct. 1, 1964, at the entrance to the 1,232-acre Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Campus cops grabbed Jack Weinberg, a former student soliciting funds for the Congress of Racial Equality, arrested him for trespassing and tossed him inside a police car.

Damien cheerleaders picked

By ROSE TRESSEL
St. Lucy's Correspondent

Girls from St. Lucy's Priory High School in Glendora and Pomona Catholic High School have been selected to serve as cheerleaders for freshmen games at Damien High School in La Verne.

Out of 28 who tried out, only six were chosen.

They are Ann O'Neill, Chris Jenkens and Dorothy Frykke from St. Lucy's and Cindy Borba, Maria Sichles and Anna Perdoma from Pomona Catholic.

Mrs. Dee Jenkins is Damien's cheerleader coordinator.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The business of today's college students increasingly is business, with a turn away from activism and towards conservative, dollar-oriented careers, business leaders say.

At General Motors, the nation's largest corporation, graduates they hire are "more mature-acting than they were in the '60s," says Chester Francke, director of placement and college relations.

One executive, Francke said in a telephone interview, suggested that "perhaps the slump in the economy had something to do with changing attitudes." It may be making the current crop of students "a little more practical about their careers," he added.

But for all their maturity and willingness to face the grim facts of the job market, today's graduates "seem to be coming to us now with much greater naivete about the economics of life," said Francke. "There's an economic illiteracy that seems to be growing."

At Dow Chemical, which got its lumps from activists during the Vietnam era over the manufacture of napalm, campus recruiter Bob Mayo found the academic pastures akin to the quiet '50s.

"There's been a turn toward a much more conservative career," he observed, noting that today's students are more dollar-oriented than they were a decade ago.

Mayo, who recruited for Dow during the demonstrations, said, "There were good folks coming out of college then just as there are now."

But generally, he said, today's college graduate is "more conservative now, more capitalistic, more interested in entrepreneur-type activities compared with goodness and light and everything total, white or black...it's rather dramatic."

Jim Nunan, northwestern region recruiting manager for International Business Machines, agreed with Mayo that today's students are a lot like those of the '50s.

A decade ago, he said, "they were all political science majors. Now, they're going out for business again, because a lot of them are disillusioned about trying to earn a living with a poli-sci major."

Decline of radicalism seen on college campuses—

(Cont. from Page 3)
Speech Movement, kicked off his shoes and leaped to the roof of the patrol car. His name was Mario Savio, and his words electrified the crowd:

"You've got to put your bodies upon the gears and upon the wheels, upon all the apparatus...indicate to the people who own it that unless you're free the machine will be prevented from working at all."

His words were the catalyst.

For the next 32 hours the police car, Weinberg trapped inside, didn't move. A crush of bodies immobilized the vehicle. A chord, playing the theme of dissent of the Vietnam war and racial inequality, sounded on campuses nationwide.

Years later, on Feb. 26, 1970, the same raucus harmony sounded in Southern California when a young, anti-war, antidraft, anti-high rent mob burned down a $300,000 branch of the Bank of America at Isla Vista, bedroom community for UC-Santa Barbara.

In the intervening years, both sides — the radicals and the voices of law and order — dealt in the currency of hatred, passion and violence. There were no discussions; only threats and demands for unconditional surrender.

Kerr, who lost his job during the late-'60s strife, now chairs the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education. His office is a few blocks from the Berkeley streets washed by those years of campus turmoil.

The students of the '60s were a more affluent group, he said. "They demanded electives so they could take more socially relevant courses," while today's students want electives to ensure a job.

A new wave of students occupies the campus today. In addition to wealthy youngsters and the children of the middle class, there now are a large number of military veterans and young minority men and women getting an education under liberalized admissions policies.

Kerr is convinced there will be another wave of activism. "I don't know when it's going to come, and I don't know what it will be about," he said.

He mentioned a visit he made last spring to UC-Santa Cruz, coincidental with a student protest of university holdings in corporations dealing with South Africa.

Some students told him they didn't want to repeat the mistakes of the last time around. "They didn't want violence this time," he noted.

The campus disenchantment with violence was demonstrated late last spring during a Stanford disburbance on the same issue. Police arrested 270 demonstrators. Protest leaders, determined to make it a peaceful show, had taken from their followers objects which might be mistaken for weapons.

Kerr wouldn't guess whether that issue, or the Alan Bakke reverse discrimination case might be the catalyst for trouble. The Bakke case involves a state Supreme Court decision that UC's special admissions program, which benefits minorities, illegally discriminates against whites. An appeal is now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Rosenzweig, who heads Stanford's public affairs section, says it's folly to look for differences in the students of today and of a decade past.

"It's a fiction of the media that the students are different," he said. "I think some external circumstances have changed — obviously, the end of the war and the end of the draft were very significant. What they did was take the immediacy out of political action."

Another who believes the issues are not present to get a student's idealistic adrenaline working is Craig Ehrlich, UCLA's student president, who says:

"There's no issue to unite us. There's no Vietnam...there isn't a lot of excitement" among the students. And people, he said, are more cautious than they used to be.

"So many people were hurt by the stands they took," he said.

"There are so many competing issues that nothing takes the social attention that the war in Vietnam got...nothing makes people say, 'let me drop everything else in my life and grab onto this cause'," he said.

A similar view came from UCLA chancellor Charles Young, who sees today's student considering career choices and personal problems rather than social problems.

"Today's social issues of concern deal with the equality of opportunity in terms of ethnic and sexual discrimination," he said. "The student of the '60s felt that economically he had it made...I think there was a rude awakening."

Hayakawa, in a telephone interview from his Mill Valley home, made no attempt to hide his abiding disgust for the campus bands that tried to make his life miserable in the winter of 1968-69.

Today's students, he said, "do not have the vague and shadowy ideals of 10 years ago, but much more specific ones," he said. "The present generation is disillusioned with the near-fascism of the 1960s in which small minorities imposed their views on the rest of the population."

Specific changes in student interests are significant to Bowker, who says preparing for the future has had "a considerable effect on student interest and behavior. There's tremendous pressure for students to get into business, law school, medical school, architecture, engineering."

Despite the years of riots, 58-year-old Bowker found something good in it all. The student movement, spurred by a small but vocal core of radicals, showed the public that the nation's bright, young minds were opposed to the war, he said.

In no-nonsense terms, 22-year-old Jackie Thornton, a Fresno State University journalism major, concludes today's student is unwilling to get involved with anything that would hurt his education.

"Students today are not as concerned about changing the world through protest as they are in getting a paycheck," she said. "The job market is a lot tougher and they are aware of that."

The student of the '60's was idealistic, and the student of '77 is realistic, she concluded.

What form has this realism taken? For one, the academic pressure gauge is hitting the ceiling in every business school in the country. At Stanford's Graduate School of Business, considered one of the best, there were 1,700 applications in 1967. This year, some 4,300 young men and women have applied for the school's 300 slots.

Nationally, the Educational Testing Service counted 58,500 taking tests for business schools in 1967 and 145,000 this year.

Mark Mancall, director of Stanford's Overseas Study Program who lives in a student dorm, says students today and the protest era cannot be compared.

"They are extraordinarily serious and studious and quite worried about their future," he said. "They wonder if they are going to have jobs when they graduate. But they like to have some excitement in their lives and that's why you had the (anti-South African) sit-in."

Student editor Grey ranks economics No. 1 in the minds of most students. "It puts pressure on the individual to get better grades and build a nice resume while in college," he said.

Perhaps the bottom line of the opinion is his observation that, at UCLA at least, there are no student leaders in sight with the charisma to mobilize lively protests.

Journalism professor Don Krimel at California State University, Northridge, who was on the Southern California campus in the '60s, said any would-be activists at his school are keeping a low profile.

"Even where there are student activists involved, they don't express their relative radicalism," he said.

Students angered

U.C. investments cause new rift

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of California's lucrative portfolio, containing $555 million worth of stock in 60 firms that operate in South Africa, has become a bitter bone of contention between angry students and university regents.

Some observers feel the investments could be the one issue capable of sparking trouble on the state's college campuses during an otherwise predictably calm school year.

Fodder for apartheid, the students cry. Sound economics, insist the university's governing board.

The newly-formed Board of Regents committee on social responsibility in investment decisions may provide proposals on how to handle the controversial stock.

But the crowd of jeering students who hooted announcement of the committee's formation at the September regents' meeting indicates that the controversy is far from resolved.

Protest of the investments flashed across the nine-campus system in the spring of 1977. Nonviolent demonstrations on several campuses prompted arrests of several hundred students, including 401 at UC's Santa Cruz campus and 59 on two occasions in Berkeley.

One spring meeting of the regents was forced to adjourn when a crowd of chanting students disrupted the agenda with a call to end all investment in companies doing business in South Africa.

They argued that support of those firms is a financial prop to South Africa's system of racial separatism.

Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, the state's first black lieutenant governor and a member of the board, agreed with the argument and proposed the university divest itself of the stock.

Dymally's proposal and a compromise measure failed to win approval. Most critics of the proposals agreed with a report by board treasurer Owsley Hammond which said divestment could hurt UC financially and would have little impact on apartheid.

On Sept. 16, the board adopted a resolution introduced by Regent William A. Wilson setting up an advisory committee on shareholder responsibility which would report to the investments committee.

But there are some who feel that naming the advisory committee will probably not silence the new wave of campus dissent.

"It's an attempt to fend off student protest and try to funnel it into some negotiating, talking stage," said Steve Diamond, 21, of the Campus United Against Apartheid, the group which staged several of last spring's demonstrations. "I think most students see right through that. We've gone through most of that stuff in the 60s."

A campus couple

What a difference a decade can make

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Tom Norminton was president of Associated Students at UCLA, he decided to set aside money from his office budget to buy gas masks for the staff.

Seven years later, in 1976, another UCLA student body president — Norminton's wife, Meg — was faced with another decision. She had to decide whether to buy butcher-block or regular tables for the prospering student union.

Norminton, 29, is now a successful Beverly Hills attorney, and his wife is a student and works part-time for her husband's firm.

"Tom was president in the middle of the war, with the riots," said Meg, 22, who headed the student government from the spring of 1976 until fall of last year.

"My year, the students went to school, went home and got drunk," said Meg in an interview in her husband's swank office.

Tom Norminton remembers his year as president from 1969 to 1970 as having "a crisis every day."

"There was always a crowd or a mob," he said. "The anxiety level was really high. I can remember coming back to my dorm room and thinking 'How can this go on? What's going to happen?'"

What happened, the couple agreed, is that student energy burned out and they became tired of fighting. That fatigue has combined with the lack of a central issue to unite students in the '70s.

"In the '60s, there was something bigger than all of us," said Meg. "Now, there's nothing more important than you are. So people are into EST, yoga, biofeedback."

"When I ran for office," said Tom, "people wanted to stop the war."

Student goals today are similar to those most parents have for their offspring — getting good jobs and making money, she said.

Norminton, now a university trustee, said the UCLA Associated Students Corp. has become a financial monolith worth more than $20 million. This contrasts with 1970 when the student union was bankrupt, he said.

In contrast to the students of the 1960s who were "chasing windmills," Tom said, today's students are grasping onto personal causes that will aid them when they enter the "real world."

"The outlook isn't as rosy," he explained, "so you have people climbing over each other's backs to get into the available slots in society."

Ganesha student council planning activities

By MELISSA CLESCERI
Ganesha Correspondent

The Ganesha High School Student Council is planning activities for the 1977-78 school year.

These activities include a dance scheduled for Friday, Oct. 14 at 10 p.m. after the Ganesha Giants versus Pomona Devils football game at 7:30 p.m. The dance will be held in the Giant gymnasium. It will be casual, come-as-you-are dress. Student Council members are currently auditioning bands.

Student Council is preparing to launch a "Beautify the Ganesha Campus" campaign. Ganesha clubs will be asked to decorate and keep the campus clean. Council members are also hoping to paint the Ganesha Giant Logo on the sidewalk in front of the school. The district provided funds for Ganesha's new paint job.

Last year's threat of a closed campus has moved council members to continue to remind students that open campus is a privilege and to respect the property of the neighboring residences to Ganesha. Despite efforts by Student Council members, McDonald's restaurant, which last year prohibited Ganesha students from the establishment during school hours, has refused to admit students this year.

Noontime activities for this quarter will include music by various bands. The annual Fall Festival Carnival will be held in November.

ASB card sales have been successful, according to council members. To date 350 cards have been sold. It is hoped that by November, 800 cards will have been sold. Currently cards are being sold for $6. On Oct. 17, cards will cost $7.50. Ganesha ASB cards admit students to home sports events free of charge and provide up to $75 in other discounts.

ASB officers are Phil Kranenberg, president; Byron Gricher, vice president; Monica Upchurch, secretary; Jamie Ali, treasurer; and Merna Aviles, Tyna Brooks, Eric Sanders and Adrienne Tucker, commissioners.

Kranenberg said of the new school year activities, "Student Council members are building a strong relationship among themselves and through this we can accomplish much. The first of the school year has gotten off the ground very smoothly. Ganesha students will have one of their better years."

The Lucians (mothers' club), students from surrounding schools and St. Lucy's students will view the fashions which will range from current fall styles to formal evening attire.

"Fantasia" will be directed by Miss Kathy Hall, Laureate moderator, and Mrs. Lu Cronin, social director. Donna Capraro, editor of the Laureate, will be coordinator. She will share commentator's duties with Nance Naish.

Lutheran High officers listed

By LYNN HERMAN
Lutheran Correspondent

At the end of the '76-'77 school year, Lutheran High, La Verne, conducted its fifth annual ASB election of officers. Heading Student Council this year are Jerry Olenyn, president; Robert Wallan, vice president; Laura Kniep, secretary; and Chris Gardner, treasurer. They are all seniors.

Jerry Olenyn has had previous experience in school politics both here at Lutheran High, and at Lorbeer Junior High School in Diamond Bar.

Two of Jerry's goals are having the best homecoming yet, and getting a constitution for the school.

As vice president, Robert Wallan is experiencing his first year on Student Council. One of Robert's objectives, along with the other members of Student Council, has already been realized. That was to revise the school dress code.

Secretary Laura Kniep says that being elected was a great honor. She is proud to be part of the Student Council, which she feels is the best organized and efficient yet.

Chris Gardner, another first-year member, is enthusiastic. His goal is to keep financial records straight, and to do it honestly. One of his duties at present is selling ASB cards.

Walnut's homecoming set

Walnut High School homecoming will be held Oct. 7.

An opportunity for the musically inclined

ON THE COVER

Seven-year-old Aaron Hughston of Claremont had finished his violin lessons and was now happily (and skillfully) kicking his soccer ball across the sun-drenched lawns of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church in Claremont.

I asked him how he liked violin lessons. "I like them fine," he replied. Would he rather play soccer than the violin? He shook his blonde head. "I like them both," he said firmly. Which is good news for his team and a tribute to the Claremont Community School of Music where Aaron studies violin. (Classes meet at the church.)

The school was organized by a group of concerned parents and interested musicians and incorporated as a non-profit educational institution in 1970 when public schools were cutting back on music classes because of tightened budgets. The objectives are to provide instruction in all instruments by well-qualified teachers, to give students (and adults) the enjoyment of playing music with others, and to develop each musician to the highest level of his ability in performance.

The carefully selected faculty is made up of concert artists, soloists, orchestral performers and teachers. President this year is Ralph Pierce,-concert pianist and professor of music at Scripps College and the Claremont Graduate School for many years. Director of the school is Lorraine F. Young, who teaches flute and recorder.

Violin instruction is given by Marjorie Marth, director of the string department; Daniel Strang, former concert master of the Claremont Symphony Orchestra, and Alice Bentley. Richard Mooney teaches cello, and Lori Ives viola. Carol Hendrixson is director of the piano department, which includes Natalie Higgins, Bonnie Snortum and Norma Banman. Wesley Hawks teaches clairnet; Thelma Geller oboe; Steve Marcussen trumpet; Clifford Keating other brass and Richard Jensen classical and folk guitar. Lilli Singer is accompanist. Voice lessons are also offered.

Sandra Parker teaches Yamaha. Yamaha? These are classes in music education for moppets four to seven years old that stress exploration and experience of music in a group situation with child, parent and instructor. The course includes an introduction to rhythm, melody and harmony through games, songs and body movement specially designed to develop musical awareness in the young child.

A major feature of the CCSM is the Suzuki violin course, a program developed in Japan 40 years ago by violinist-teacher Shinichi Suzuki and since spread throughout the world. Suzuki discovered that small children have a greater awareness and aptitude for learning music than was generally believed, and he started teaching violin to two- and three-year-olds. His aim was not to teach them to become accomplished musicians — though many have — but to enrich their lives through intimate contact with music and the inner satisfaction that comes from doing something well. At CCSM a Suzuki violin workshop will find musicians from pre-schoolers to high schoolers performing together. The disciplines and learning procedures of the violin instruction program carried over into other intellectual areas, and Suzuki violin students were found to perform at a markedly higher level in academic work than their classmates. The students are taught to play by listening, imitation, repetition and instruction in proper techniques.

Parents are at the center of the Suzuki plan. One or both attend each private lesson and the semi-monthly ensemble class. They learn to play the instrument themselves and take notes during the child's practice sessions and lessons, study the manuals and help the young musician at home with encouragement and constant repetition.

At present, CCSM has an enrollment of some 150. The school is supported by modest tuition fees, public donations and proceeds from faculty benefit concerts. All the funds go into the work and development of the program.

However it is presented, music education — especially constant practicing — turns off many young people. (I speak from my own experience.) I asked trumpet student Jim Ives, 13, how he liked the program. "It's a good school," he said. Is it fun? "Well, if you call practicing fun," he said laconically.

I got a different reaction from six-year-old Wendy Waggener when I interrupted her at her piano lesson. "I like this a lot," she said. Would you rather be out on the playground? "No — this is fun!"

Lorraine F. Young, left, director of the school, gives a lesson to Margaret Palmer.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

JORDAN VALLEY, Ore. (AP) — The green sign by the highway says: "Jordan Valley: Population 210."

That's not right anymore — not since the mine moved atop the mountain. Not since the only "played out" silver mine in the United States was reopened by modern technology, the high price of silver and a $20 million gamble.

The population has doubled. So has the police force — from one to two. Prices at both motels have gone up, trailer courts have replaced sage brush, Wendell Collins bought a trucking firm and sold some of his ranch and Mayor Aiden Madariaga quit pumping gas after more than 20 years to become a mine foreman.

"They came by and made an offer that sounded awful good," he said.

The ranchers grumble about dust the miners' road kicked up — dust, they said, that could give cattle pneumonia. And just about everybody in Jorda' Valley squawked about t!e fact that the DeLamar Mine was in Idaho — recipient of the tax dollars — while the schools where the miners' children went were in Oregon.

"It will fall upon us to educate the miners' children," said Collins. Further complicating matters, Oregon school taxes are based on property taxes, and only one miner has bought a home.

Ranchers look at land as money in the bank and aren't eager to sell. They say they love wide open spaces and the Taylor Grazing Act allows them to graze their stock on federal land in proportion to how much land a rancher owns.

While some have sold land, Bill Lowry's attitude is more typical.

"I don't want anybody living on my back door. This old land means a lot to me."

Besides, if he sold his choice land along the road to the mine he would lose grazing rights to some of the 277 acres of government land he uses.

Lowry and others complain about the attitude some of the miners brought to this sleepy little cow town that lives off U.S. 95 as it makes an "L" in the heart of town, funneling 500 cars and up to 200 trucks through each day.

"They came in here like we were living in Appalachia and needed them," says Lowry. "We weren't that bad off. There are a few men in this town who could write a check that would make the Kennedys look twice."

Last April the first silver was poured. An armored car parked outside the Sahara Motel all night was visible to everyone and the first silver buttons were loaded up at the mine next day.

The DeLamar Silver Mine is a joint venture between Earth Resources Company, Superior Oil Co. and Canadian Superior Mining Ltd., and it is the third largest silver mine in the United States. Its expected annual production is 2.5 million ounces.

The mine's ore has an assay of four to five ounces of silver per ton with a trace of gold. That low grade wasn't profitable in the late 60s and early 70s when silver was going for $1.30 an ounce. At about $4.50 an ounce today, it's economical to open the mine.

Miller won't say how much the mine is expected to gross, but 2.5 million ounces at current prices comes to more than $11 million.

Officials say the mine has at least 20 years, and Miller predicts it will dramatically change the town. "Five years from now you won't recognize Jordan Valley. There will be new homes, new businesses."

Tom Miche, a mine superintendent, also says that the natives' fears about the school system are valid. "We'll vote in school bond issues they don't want. It's inevitable."

Depending upon how long the mine functions, that could be a problem for a long-term bond issue if, in fact, the miners do pull out of town.

In Jordan Valley there's no movie house, no bowling alley. If you want something like that, it's an hour away — in the Nampa-Caldwell, Idaho, area.

There has been some talk of new businesses opening up. But for the moment, little has changed. Attendance is up at the three churches — Catholic, Methodist, Mormon. So is business at the post office, the gas stations and the restaurants.

Jimmy Eordi, manager of the JV Tavern and Cafe, says his business increased by about 30 per cent when the construction workers were in. They tended to be a rough crew and some talked of prison records.

"The construction company hired anybody who came up the road. That gave the mine a black eye," says the mayor.

Charlie Duvall, head of personnel at the mine and a city council member, says it has been most careful in screening the 135 employes. But Peggy Zatica, also a city council member, says the screening isn't careful enough.

Police Chief Paul Arritola says there's been an increase in crime — a few houses burglarized, some petty theft and fights in the street. But he's not so sure it's all imported. "There's a tendency to blame everything on the miners."

Eight miles of molten lava moves in on Hawaii village

KALAPANA, Hawaii (AP) — A 1,000-foot-wide stream of molten lava from Kilauea Volcano inched closer to this coastal Hawaii Island community on Friday and threatened to bury homes in its path.

The thick ooze of lava was a mile from the ocean by Friday morning and 18 homes and a Catholic church were in its path.

The eight-mile-long stream of lava, about six inches thick, was moving at 350 feet per hour, slowed by level ground from its 600-foot hourly advance earlier in the week.

The 50 residents of the threatened houses began evacuating Thursday. Hawaii County Mayor Herbert Matayoshi declared a state of emergency in the area, about 30 miles southeast of Hilo, the largest city on the state's largest island — also named Hawaii. After the flow hits the 18 oceanside houses in this small community, it has a clear path to the water.

County Civil Defense director Harry Kim said the flow threatened the cultural and historic center of the community, which is less than 10 miles from the eruption site.

An Army demolition team has been in the area experimenting with methods of diverting lava flows. But scientists told residents that technical problems and a lack of preparation time prevented any effort to halt the approaching lava.

Kilauea, which is one of two active volcanoes in Volcanoes National Park, pumped lava from a rift on its eastern slope, shooting fountains of lava 200 feet high with occasional bursts to 250 and 300 feet.

The last major volcanic eruption in Hawaii came at Mauna Loa, the other volcano in the park, two years ago.

Bulging prisons overloaded by at least 20,000 convicts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's prisons are bulging with at least 20,000 more inmates than they were built to hold, threatening the safety and privacy of many prisoners, a report to Congress said Friday.

"Most of the jurisdictions in the United States face prison problems of different degrees. Most jurisdictions are in trouble," said the report.

Congress last year ordered the study of present and future needs of state and federal prisons.

Focusing on overcrowding, the report said state and federal institutions for adult prisoners housed 283,433 inmates as of June 30. But the capacity of those institutions was only 262,768 and the population was 20,665 above capacity.

The statistics indicated that Florida prisons were the most severely overcrowded with nearly 19,000 inmates in space designed for about 14,000.

The California system seemed to be in the best shape with fewer than 22,000 prisoners and space for about 2,000 more.

The statistics may not show an accurate picture of the overcrowding because of differences in the way prison officials determine institutional capacity, the researchers noted.

In some cases, they said, prison officials simply raised the rated capacity to come closer to the actual population and make the problem of overcrowding appear less serious.

On the other hand, prison officials may reduce the rate of capacity when they're trying to impress state legislators with the seriousness of the problem and persuade them to appropriate more money, the report said.

There were wide regional variations in the overcrowding problem.

'Quick tax cut' plans are revealed in memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering splitting up its forthcoming tax package to give millions of Americans a quick tax cut next year, it was learned Friday.

In a Sept. 2 memo to President Carter, Treasury Department officials said Congress may not approve the entire tax bill by mid-1978, when the economy might need a tax cut.

If a quick boost is needed, the administration could ask Congress to pass a separate bill cutting withholding taxes for wages and salaries in 1978 rather than the 1979 target date in the tax package, the memo said.

President Carter is still studying the tax proposals, but in one recent draft the taxes paid by a family of four with an annual income of $15,000 to $20,000 would be reduced by about $300 to $1,360 a year.

The draft calls for a major change in the individual tax program. It would raise the income at which no taxes are paid from $7,600 to $9,500 a year for a family of four. A family would begin paying 12 per cent on money earned above the $9,500 level, but a complete scale was not worked out.

Carter's energy plan hit by major setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in still another major setback for supporters of President Carter's energy plan, Friday refused for the second time to set aside a plan lifting federal controls on natural gas prices.

The 50 to 44 vote demonstrated that in several days of a marathon filibuster by foes of deregulation, the administration had been able to pick up only two votes in its efforts to retain controls over the critical fuel.

Nonetheless, filibuster leaders refused to give up and said Friday's vote might be overturned.

"Our intention is to continue the filibuster," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "I guess we could continue the filibuster for another week, 10 days, maybe two weeks without much trouble."

Metzenbaum said counting absentees, opponents of deregulation were only a few votes shy of a tie. Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., joined him in leading the filibuster.

However, one key administration supporter, Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said it appeared to him that the battle in the Senate on natural gas was over.

"I think the handwriting is on the wall and we ought to get on with it," he said.

Should the Carter administration concede defeat in the Senate, the natural gas issue would go to a House-Senate conference committee. The House has approved Carter's plan for a natural gas ceiling of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said it appeared the deregulation forces have a slight margin and urged, "Let's get on with the people's business forum, the conference between the House and Senate."

Metzenbaum and Abourezk had blocked a vote on extending the federal debt ceiling. Without the extension the federal government would eventually have been unable to honor checks or pay its employes.

FROINES NAMED

50,000 dock workers go out on strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike by 50,000 East and Gulf coast longshoremen against containership operators was declared in effect as of midnight Friday by Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO. The head of the federal mediation service said it was impossible to avert the walkout.

"The strike is on," Gleason said before leaving his Manhattan office hours in advance of the midnight strike deadline.

As he left, the last of 14 big containerships, decks laden high with van-size cargo boxes, began putting out to sea from New York Harbor to escape entrapment by the strike.

New deadline set for Japan ransom payoff

The five hijackers, identified as members of the ultra-leftist Japanese Red Army and said to be armed with guns and explosives, seized a JAL jet Wednesday over India and forced it to land at Dacca airport.

A JAL spokesman said the plane was slightly behind schedule and it was due to arrive in Dacca at 11:45 a.m. today, 25 minutes later than originally scheduled.

He also said the hijackers had extended their deadline to 12 noon today — just 15 minutes after the approaching jet is scheduled to touch down at Dacca airport. An earlier 4 a.m. Saturday deadline set by the hijackers passed without apparent incident.

The ransom jet also was carrying 6.6 tons of food, medical supplies and clothing and 76 government and airline officials led by JAL president Shizuo Asada and Hajimi Ishii, a parliamentary minister.

FRENCH HIJACK SUSPECT JAILED

Capture gunman after teargas barrage

Police storm hijacked French jet

PARIS (AP) — Police marksmen firing teargas grenades stormed a hijacked French jetliner Friday night and captured a blond gunman who had shot a stewardess and threatened to blow up the plane unless his recorded political message was broadcast.

One passenger was killed and at least four were wounded when the hijacker lobbed a hand grenade toward the cockpit as some 50 policemen forced their way into the jet parked at Orly Airport, a French official said.

Passengers said some crew members were wounded when shots were fired inside the twin-engine Caravelle and the hijacker was injured slightly by a teargas grenade that hit him in the head.

But district administrator Jean Perier said no shots were fired by policemen carying sidearms or the hijacker, armed with a pistol. "There was absolutely no exchange of fire," he said.

The lightning strike by specially trained officers came more than eight hours after the hijacker first commandeered the Paris-to-Lyon domestic Air-Inter flight and held more than 90 passengers hostage. The gunman had been negotiating with French officials, warning them not to "try anything stupid" or he would kill his captives.

Police identified the hijacker as Jacques Robert. He became known as France's "Pirate of the Air Waves" after he burst into a radio station on Feb. 8, 1974.

Gov. Brown and 800 Demos honor Ayala

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Assistant City Editor

More than 800 Democrats, from hometown friends and neighbors to Governor Brown, attended a $50 a plate dinner Friday night in San Bernardino for Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., Chino.

It was a festive affair with music by a seven-piece Mariachi band, a no-host cocktail bar and a steak dinner.

Governor Brown, introduced by former Congressman Jerry Voorhis of Claremont, praised Ayala as a "good friend, a good legislator who has taken it upon himself to provide a great link in the California water plan.

"If we ever get it, we should name a canal after Ayala," Brown said.

Ayala's $3 billion water bill to build a peripheral canal was defeated in the senate the last day of the session. He has said he will have it back on the senate floor Jan. 3.

Brown went on to say that in the last three years one million new jobs had been created in California by private business, that society was on the move, just on the verge of creating a brand new industry, solar energy.

"We try to give people an opportunity to learn and to work. I have just signed a bill to ban forced retirement. From now on in California, whether it's public or private, that's illegal."

Senate President Pro Tem James Mills said, "The first man to sail a ship into San Francisco Bay was an Ayala. Sometimes Ruben looks upon us all as his guests."

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy called Ayala "Rube" and said, "You'd better have the 27 water bill votes by January or this is the last dinner you'll have."

San Bernardino County Coroner Bill Hill was master of ceremonies. After introducing eight members of the legislature, he said, "We practically have a quorum. We could probably pass Ruben's water bill right here."

The light mood of the party was marred by members of the San Bernardino County Labor Council AFL-CIO who picketed the entrance gate at the National Orange Show Grounds and inside distributed literature. Earlier they had announced they would boycott the dinner because of Ayala's vote on June 23 against binding arbitration for public employees.

Ayala and Governor Brown shared the head table not only with senators and assemblymen, but with political leaders from San Bernardino County and City government.

Voorhis paused to congratulate Mrs. Irene Ayala, wife of the senator, on "having brought up a husband to be one of the finest legislators in the state."

In introducing Governor Brown, Voorhis said, "This young man has a fresh-air style of life and should be a model to all of us in politics. He is motivated by a religious conviction. He is more than a governor, he is a guide and philosopher of the people. I hope he will soon call a special session of the legislature on tax reform."

Bill raises mandatory retirement age to 70

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Senate Human Resources Committee approved a bill Friday raising the mandatory retirement age to 70 after agreeing to exempt tenured university professors and school teachers from the change.

The vote was 8-to-5 on the amendment exempting teachers.

The provision was offered on behalf of the academic hierachy, which has expressed concern about getting "new teaching blood" into the classroom.

Bitterly disappointed were representatives of teacher organizations which had fought to allow older teachers to keep their jobs until the age of 70. In most instances, teachers, like the majority of others in the private sector, face forced retirement at age 65.

The overall bill, passed by voice vote, would raise the mandatory retirement age for most private employment from 65 to 70. It applies to workers whose employer has 20 or more persons on the payroll, or 70 percent of the labor force.

The committee also bowed to President Carter's request to postpone the effective date of the legislation until Jan. 1, 1979, to allow business to adjust to the proposed new retirement age.

Ayala airs views on arbitration, Foothill Freeway, and tax relief

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., discussed property tax relief, the Foothill Freeway, binding arbitration and a bill to limit the term of gubernatorial appointments with valley mayors Friday.

The senator concluded two days of informal meetings with elected officials in his district Friday at the Sycamore Inn, Cucamonga. Among those attending were Chino Mayor Bob Mc Leod, Pomona Mayor Charles Bader, Upland Mayor George Gibson and city managers John Gerardi, Lee Travers, Lauren Wasserman and Roger Hughbanks, respectively of Chino, Upland, Montclair and Ontario.

Binding arbitration for public employes is the "first step in local government crumbling," Ayala said. "Empioyes would like to have it. It's wrong to water down the authority of local officials and transfer it to people who might not even live in the community. Local residents wouldn't have any recourse."

Ayala voiced no ire about binding arbitration in the private sector because it does not involve public tax dollars. "But when you're talking about public employes, you're talking about tax dollars," he said, repeating his opposition to Senate Bill 164 which would mandate binding arbitration.

On the matter of property tax relief, Ayala felt that state legislators dragged their feet in putting together a comprehensive and effective bill in the last session. He voted for the bill which passed although it did not meet all needs. But he said the matter will come up again in the next legislative session and should be examined more carefully.

The $2.7 billion savings, or relief, was "not the result of the fact we're frugal legislators. It just happened in spite of us, not because of us," Ayala continued. "In order to come up with a good bill, we get so involved and complex with terms no one ever heard of. People don't give a damn about that. They want property tax relief."

The senator appeared skeptical about the removal of the inventory tax and the limitation on city spending. In the first instance, he felt some provision should be made to reimburse cities those funds lost with the removal of the inventory tax. Secondly, he noted, "I will not support a bill that doesn't also put a cap on state government.

"To limit local government is wrong, especially if binding arbitration goes through."

Regarding the Foothill Freeway, Ayala offered little hope that the bill drafted by Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-62nd Dist., for completion of the cooridor from La Verne to San Bernardino would pass. He spoke of the anti-freeway attitude of Adriana Gianturco, director of the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans).

Ayala said the attitude of Mrs. Gianturco, who had assured him and others before Senate confirmation of her appointment that she was not anti-freeway, indicates the need to limit the terms of gubernatorial appointees.

He announced that he would soon introduce a bill whereby "any appointment confirmed by the (state) Senate can only go as long as the term of the governor. If he gets re-elected, then the appointee must be reappointed and reconfirmed by the Senate."

According to Ayala, this would allow the people "to have a little bit of control and a little bit of a hammer so these people don't stay there forever."

Finally, on the question of Expo 81, Ayala reiterated his lack of support to a resolution authored by Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino calling for legislative sanction of the fair and additional steps by the President. He said he would not introduce any bill on the $133 million revenue bond issue that Expo 81 Corp. is seeking to be released through the state Public Works Board.

MALL RENOVATION — Business leaders met at 295 Pomona Mall West in Pomona Friday to hear plans for revitalizing the mall. Chatting about the renovation of the S. H. County, civic leaders back proposed Mall renovation

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

County and civic leaders Friday gave their blessing to a proposed project designed to revitalize the Pomona Mall.

"We all acknowledged that Pomona has needed a good shot in the arm," said Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum. "The county stands ready to help."

"Our community leaders are as ready as I am to see something happen downtown," commented Pomona Mayor Charles Bader. "It is a pleasure to see some ambitious plans here. The prime thrust has come from the private sector. We can help. We are eager to help."

Both men were referring to revitalization plans unveiled by Frank G. Summers Jr., president of California Park Development Co., Inc. at his new offices at 295 Pomona Mall West.

Summer revealed that he and a group of men have bought various properties on the mall and will renovate them to attract tenants at 75 percent of the going rent.

First buildings facing renovation are the S. H. Kress building at Locust Street, the Woolworth building on the north side of the mall between Thomas and Main streets, and the re-opening of Nash's as Walker's Department Store.

Summers said his redevelopment plan is the culmination of several years of study and research.

"Our area has better demographics than Montclair Plaza," he said. "But we must promote."

Summers said that 37 properties have changed hands recently and are awaiting renovation and new tenants.

He mentioned new property owners as attorney Victor G. Tessier and former Pomonan Jerry Edgars, now a Covina businessman.

Summers asked for strong support from the community.

"We have had negativism in the community, but I feel the people in this room this morning don't fit into that category," Summers said.

Prentice Royal of Adventures in Achievement, Inc. told the audience that "you have awakened a sleeping giant. You must be feeling a spark of individuality, of creativity."

He forecast that the project will draw a tremendous amount of people back into the area.

Chamber President Robert Burwell pledged that the chamber of commerce will "support you in any way we can."

Alternative to a college

Eleventh in a series
By JOHN DOUGLAS

Assuming your child is not motivated to launch a full-time college career at the end of high school, what alternatives present themselves? Several — but all require some planning ahead. The worst possible time to talk with your teenager about career planning is just before high school graduation. This is one decision you can't make for your children, and shouldn't try. You can, however, help your children prepare for the transition graduation brings by discussing with them some of the following alternatives to full-time college study, well in advance of the time they must choose among them:

Vocational education in high school. Have your youngster take advantage of the federal money being poured into "skills centers" designed to train high school students for immediate entrance into the job market. Talk to the school guidance counselor and see whether he or she is well informed about the real value of training opportunities available. (Many, unfortunately, are now.) Find out what local businesses are involved in cooperative education and talk with your child about the possibility of on-the-job

Ontario Police Chief Lee Kolbrek walks almost weekly into the "jaws of the lion" where few police chiefs in other cities would dare not tread.

After nearly two years of the community program, Kolbrek is confident his personal appearance at meetings following major police actions in troubled areas of the city does more to reduce tensions and anxieties than a show of force or extra "selective" patrols.

Following serious incidents where residents question police action taken or fear more serious events may occur, Kolbrek volunteers to meet with the people involved.

He will soothe their fears, answer questions, and promise to investigate any hints of wrongdoings by officers under his command.

"To me, it's just a part of my job," said Kolbrek. "It gives me feedback from the community. It lets me know what the citizens feel and how we, as a police department, can better serve them."

Kolbrek said the one thing he relies on is "honesty." If residents have a complaint about certain police actions, he briefly tries to explain the necessity of the action of his officers at the time, laws surrounding the action, and encourages residents to seek other information from legislative representatives or other agencies outside the department.

"If we find the citizens' complaints have some factual basis, we make it a point to bring information back to the department and try to do something about it."

Assisting Kolbrek in such investigations are members of the department's community services bureau and a staff officer charged with checking allegations of misconduct made against police officers.

Special hearings are held with witnesses when necessary. Some hearings have resulted in officers being reduced in rank, suspended from duty without pay, and placed on probationary status.

Kolbrek meets with residents at their homes, businesses or neighborhood schools. He said most residents are "amiable," but admitted some meetings have resulted in "very heavy discussions."

He cited one example which involved a police officer who attempted to arrest a man on a traffic violation in a city park where several hundred persons had gathered.

The man became combative, and the officer was forced to draw his service revolver and shoot him. The man was not killed. Persons at the park questioned the officer's action.

"We offered to meet with representatives of persons who witnessed the incident and gave them a complete rundown of the shooting," said Kolbrek.

Kolbrek most often meets with residents on Wednesday evenings. He also helps those he is meeting with notify other area residents should they want to attend.

Any resident is invited to attend these meetings. And no list of names of those attending is kept.

"We find that many people attend but they don't want anyone else to know they attended. We respect this."

In addition to the discussions, materials are given to residents which tell how they may protect their homes, their rights under the law, and tips on how to prevent burglaries and acts of violence occurring in their neighborhoods.

The various burglary and crime prevention programs are not explained at the meetings, but residents are told who they may contact for assistance at the police station and through their agencies, said Kolbrek.

TIME TO RELAX

Walking all over the Los Angeles County Fair can be tiring, even when the weather is cool. There are many places on the grounds where a person can relax, such as the picnic area near the Plaza of the States. The world's largest county fair runs through Sunday.

BARBARA SMITH

Barbara Smith named Chino's top teacher

Barbara Smith, a math teacher who has only taught in the Chino school district for two years, has been chosen as the district's "Teacher of the Year" for 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith, a teacher at Don Lugo High School and the district's subject area specialist in mathematics, was chosen by a committee made up of two district administrators and two teachers.

The committee made the selection from a group of nominees offered by each district principal.

Mrs. Smith is a "super teacher," according to Kay Moore, director of secondary curriculum who served on the final selection committee.

Mrs. Moore described the teacher as dedicated to her profession, and willing to work on important ad hoc committees. "She has complete dedication and works well with people."

Mrs. Smith has been a teacher in Chino since 1975, and before that was a teacher in the Rialto school district for four years. She also has been a math analyst in the aerospace industry.

Mrs. Smith resides in Claremont with her husband and one son.

She will now enter competition for San Bernardino County "Teacher of the Year" which is a prelude to possible state and national competition.

Solar energy could provide 8% of energy needs by year 2000?

By the year 2000, solar energy could be providing 8 per cent of all U. S. energy needs, reports a California research organization.

And the market for solar-powered heating systems, as an example, has shown a sharp growth within the past two years. Starting from a near-zero base in 1975, solar space heater sales have been doubling every six months, they added.

Researchers believe the market will continue to double annually for the next five to 10 years before slowing down.

Solar-powered water and space heating systems are now economically competitive with electric water and space heating, reported the scientists. Solar energy, however, can't yet compete with the low price of natural gas.

Another potential area for solar energy products is the area of solar-powered watches and calculators. Such products cost considerably more than the battery-powered items, but the price difference is due to the novelty of the solar devices rather than high production costs.

Technological findings will continue to open new uses for solar energy, researchers believe.

SRI International, previously the Stanford Research Institute, is an independent, non-profit organization based in Menlo Park. It performs contract research for clients in business and government.

Mental health programs get boost with funding

Mental health programs in San Bernardino County got an added boost as the county Board of Supervisors this week agreed to accept an additional $320,000 in state funds this year for such programs.

The state money will allow funding of several programs that experienced financial cutbacks earlier this year.

Several new programs will be started, including some in the West End. Robert Russell, county health care services agency administrator, told the board the additional state funds had been made available provided supervisors approved the expenditure of $35,646 in county matching funds.

The money will be used for these increased services:

—An increase in services to predelinquent and other disordered youths in the West End.

—An outreach and prevention program for senior citizens experiencing mental health problems.

—An expansion of after-care programs for mentally ill elderly persons.

—Additional funding for several mental health associations in the county, including the West Valley Mental Health Association which serves the West End.

Pick a tree

Men from the Forestry Division of the Los Angeles County Fire Department will be at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona today and Sunday giving away potted seedling pine trees.

They will be stationed in the Youth Plaza, Building 8-A.

Anyone who would like a tree to plant in his yard may drop in and pick one up, a department spokesman said. "We'll pot them for planting," he added.

DMV open to suggestions with Backseat Driver plan

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is getting the community into the swing of affairs and policies at local DMV offices.

Established in July 1976, the Backseat Drivers is a public panel serving each DMV service area with the intention of pleasing more folks and lessening the frustrations of driver license renewals, vehicle registrations and assorted other responsibilities of the motoring public.

Jack Souders, Pomona DMV office manager, and Martha Wellington, Pomona Backseat Drivers secretary, recently discussed the purposes and accomplishments of the special panel of community persons. The Upland office of the DMV, under the coordination of office manager Roy Stokes, also offers a Backseat Drivers public panel to West End residents.

"There's always a better way of doing something. A way of improving and refining something. We're open to suggestions through the Backseat Drivers," said Souders. "There are some state mandates that must be followed, but we mainly rely on general suggestions and input from the Backseat Drivers and others."

Souders and Mrs. Wellington stressed the need to improve the image of the DMV and to institute a person-to-person public relations policy between each employe and each patron. With this in mind, the newsletter is circulated among employes with suggestions ranging from a pleasant telephone tone to courteous and prompt service at all windows and departments.

According to Souders, a major complaint about DMV service is the abrupt closing of a window after a patron has stood there for quite some time. Pomona Backseat panelist Myron Shrago suggested that a closed sign be displayed in the manner of most supermarkets to warn patrons a window is about to close. This is a means of saving time and improving communications, Souders said.

In a move to liven up the appearance of the Pomona DMV, the local office accepted a transportation mural from local artist and Backseat panelist Tim Morgan that now hangs in the Erie street office.

The Upland and Pomona offices were among several in the state which suggested and implemented form and publication revisions "to make it easier for both the public and the office staff processing the information," said Mrs. Wellington.

Mrs. Wellington reported that considerable work has also been done with senior citizens and the handicapped. An emblem, with wording as a "friendly reminder" to non-handicapped persons parking in reserved spaces for the handicapped, was developed by the Backseat Drivers and circulated state-wide to DMV offices and community organizations.

The Backseaters also introduced the inclusion of a briefer on handicapped provisions in the California Vehicle Code into license renewal notifications, began the concept of signs and curbs for the handicapped at DMV and other public traffic areas, and worked with local officials for the adoption of ordinances providing for special parking for the handicapped.

The Backseaters hope to extend information meetings to others in the future with the use of consumer forums.

Upland is among the DMV offices which have recommended dealing not only with the concerns of regular patrons, but also of facing the issues of the problem drivers.

"Down The Road," the annual report on the Backseaters program, states that in Upland and elsewhere "panelists are seeking ways to eliminate the hazards caused by drunk drivers, ranging from stiffer sentencing to changing public attitudes towards the drinking driver. They are also interested in the effectiveness of drunk driving diversion programs."

The Backseaters will also be used in a community-to community survey soon to determine the most feasible service hours of DMV offices throughout the state.

The state legislation calls for the circulation of questionnaires to members of business and labor groups, civic and social organizations, the news media and motorists.

Both local panels meet on the third Wednesday of each month with Upland at 7 p.m. and Pomona at 7:30 p.m. The Pomona panel members are chairman Maynard Lenhert, Kathy Johnston, Renorah Lewis, John Muter, Shrago, David Bruce, Morgan and Mrs. Wellington.

League opposes water rate hike

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The League of Women Voters of Claremont has notified the Public Utilities Commission that it opposes the Southern California Water Co.'s application for a rate increase to "replace income lost to conservation."

Last week, league members learned the water company has applied for its second rate increase in a year.

"Conservation of water and energy should be rewarded and not penalized," Mary Jane Merrill, president of the league said, explaining why the league has written to the commission.

The league has asked the Public Utilities Commission to adopt a conservation rate design for local water bills and to hold a public hearing before any rate increase is adopted.

Southern California Water Co., which serves about 7,600 customers in portions of Claremont, Chino, Montclair, Pomona and Upland, was granted a 17 percent rate increase in February.

In the rate application made in August, the water company stated it expected the conservation ethic to continue and intended to encourage it.

The water company is now requesting a 19 per cent rate increase to offset an estimated 30 per cent average consumption savings.

In its letter, the league states, "We applaud the water company for its strong support of a water conservation ethic. We agree that the evidence suggests that a 30 per cent conservation reduction can be sustained after the crisis of this drought is over and that it should be sustained because of energy and water supply constraints.

"An important long-term benefit of a conservation ethic is the deferral of the need for new water supply facilities.

"A rate structure designed to promote a conservation should result in a small rate increase for those customers who conserve, and a large increase for those who do not practice conservation."

The league has also requested the Claremont and Chino areas should be separated for the purpose of rate considerations.

The League of Women Voters testified at the Public Utilities rate hearings held in Claremont last November. At that hearing, the league requested consideration of pumping zone charges to reflect the added cost of pumping water into the foothills and a summer peaking rate to reflect the higher cost of water production in summer when most of the imported water Claremont uses is consumed.

Proprietary schools. These are the 10,000 privately-owned vocational schools that serve high school graduates and train them for specific jobs. They range from correspondence schools purporting to train young authors and artists to long-established technical institutes that produce many of the nation's mechanics. Quality varies from excellent to criminally fraudulent. Talk to a school's graduates or ask for a list of employers where graduates have been placed.

Work-study. This alternative makes a lot of sense if your child basically wants to earn a college degree but also wants some work experience. It may be a necessity if you're financially strapped. A wide variety of new programs have sprung up to make it easier for students to work as well as go to college. Courses given at night are a long tradition, but some schools now offer quick lunchtime courses as well.

At Northeastern University in Boston, students can earn a degree in five years by alternating quarters in and out of work, using the school's cooperative education program with local employers. Berry College in Georgia pioneered the concept of having students pay off their tuition by working at campus-based jobs, such as farming and weaving. Some industries run their own colleges; General Motors, for example, has its own accredited university. New York and New Jersey are experimenting with state-sponsored programs aimed at giving students college credit for knowledge gained on the job or for special projects.

Occasional study. Even if a child has no desire ever to earn a college degree, specific courses can prove helpful at different stages of a career. A secretary could improve her chances for promotion by studying some bookkeeping on the side. A salesman could study a foreign language and increase his chances for landing a foreign assignment, together with the usual salary bonus.

Associate degrees. The two-year college is coming into its own. A student can usually live at home, pay an average cost of only $300 a year, and study courses that could either prepare him for a college degree elsewhere or lead to a better paying job than he might expect based on his high school skills. This approach is particularly promising for a student who shows academic promise but still hasn't made up his mind whether he wants to struggle for a professional career. The two-year graduate can go either way — directly into a paraprofessional job or on to a four-year college to finish bachelor's degree work.

Mt. Sac has class in Bible for seniors

Mt. San Antonio College's adult education program will offer a senior citizens class on the Bible this fall.

The course will deal specifically with the New Testament Gospels. Special attention will be given to the types of literature in the gospels (such as the parables) and the characters making up these New Testament dramas (Pharisees, Herod, the apostles).

The class will meet on Wednesdays from 1:30 to 3:30, for 10 weeks, starting Oct. 12. Space is provided in the library of the First Presbyterian Church, Pomona. There are no fees or costs involved. Registration will take place at the class.

The Pomona Valley Council of Churches will hold its fourth annual "Walk for the Hungry" Oct. 23, starting from the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

The project is held to raise funds to feed hungry people and support agricultural programs throughout the world. During last year's "walk," more than 3,000 persons walked to raise over $50,000.

The scope of the local program was recognized by the National Council of Churches, which presented the project its first Ecumenical Service Award.

The "walk" includes all religious groups and persons of all age groups.

Persons wanting more information may contact him by phone at 982-4103, or Audrey Lightbody, executive director of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, 622-3806.

"Session" has toured throughout the western United States with a repertoire of contemporary Christian music.

"Session" is six students. They are Marla Baker, senior music major from El Centro; Rick Davis, senior music major from Mount Pleasant, Michigan; Randy DeGraw, junior music major from Santa Cruz; Kathy Morgan, senior social sciences major from Temple City; Jim Schmidt, senior music major from Mission Hills; and Jenny Steinmetz, senior music major from Tustin.

Session on world hunger in 2nd week

The second session of the three-week study on world hunger will be held Sunday at the La Verne United Methodist Church from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

The study leader will be Mark Bollwinkle from the School of Theology at Claremont. He is working toward his Doctor of Ministry degree and is assistant at the Interfaith Hunger Center. He has just returned from a year in Kenya where he worked for the Methodist Church and did research on his doctoral dissertation, "The Role of Pastoral Ministry in Rural Development."

The goal of the study on world hunger is to get the facts about the underlying causes, to find some solutions to the problem, and to get people personally involved in these solutions.

Joint parish in new church

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — When the new Church of Reconciliation was dedicated near here Sept. 3, it marked a new, closer relationship for island Anglicans (Episcopalians) and Roman Catholics. It's a joint parish.

Located in Bridgeport, the ecumenical parish covers an area including some of Jamaica's poorest people. The parish is staffed by an Anglican priest and two Roman Catholic priests of the Atonement Friars.

One of them, the Rev. Martin Carter, says that while there are separate Anglican and Roman Catholic Masses, the combined parish opens a new stage in "cooperation and sharing" between the two denominations.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED REQUEST FOR EXEMPTION DECLARATION FROM REQUIREMENTS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORTS

The Planning Commission of the City of Pomona does hereby declare and give notice that a public hearing will be held on October 12, 1977 in the City Hall Council Chambers, 505 South Garey Avenue, at 8:00 p.m. regarding a request for two exemption declarations and one categorical exemption from requirements for environmental impact reports dealing with the following proposed City Park Improvement Projects:

1. Reconstruction and lighting of tennis courts at Washington Park;
2. Lighting of tennis courts at Palomares Park
3. Replacement of fencing, backstops and repair of bleachers at Ralph Welch Park (categorical exemption); and the declaration of another action (the acquisition of land) for the future expansion of Martin Luther King Park as "not a project" which, therefore, would not require an Environmental Impact Clearance.

This request is in conjunction with an application being prepared by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department for State Funds available under the 1976-77 and 1977-78 Roberti-Z'berg Urban Open Space Grant. This is a matching grant program in which the State funds 75% and the City funds 25% of the total cost of the projects. The City is applying for $163,402 which includes the City's 25% (or $40,851.).

All persons interested in or having objection to this proposal may appear as indicated above and/or review the data, including detailed locational information, on file at the Planning Department office, 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.

Trojans rout WSU

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California's tailback tandem of Charles White and Dwight Ford combined for 246 yards and four touchdowns, and quarterback Rob Hertel passed for 182 yards Friday night as the second-ranked Trojans overpowered Washington State 41-7 in a Pacific-8 Conference football game.

White, a sophomore starter, ran for 128 yards on 27 carries and scored on runs of one and four yards. His junior understudy, Ford, amassed 118 yards on 13 carries and also scored two touchdowns on runs of 14 and 53 yards

Deftly mixing his passes with a potent ground attack, Hertel connected on 11 of his 18 throws, including a 48-yard scoring strike to Randy Simmrin.

The Trojan defense, spearheaded by linebacker Ed Gutierrez and defensive tackle Walt Underwood, completely dominated the Cougars and their fine passer, Jack Thompson.

The Washington State quarterback entered the game as the nation's fourth leading passer, but was just 10 of 21 for 136 yards against the stingy USC defense.

He was intercepted twice, but he did provide the Cougars their only touchdown, a six-yard pass to Brian Kelly in the fourth quarter.

Ford scored his two touchdowns, White tallied one and Frank Jordan kicked the first of his two field goals, a 24-yarder, as the Trojans swept to a 24-0 lead in the first half.

The Trojans are unbeaten in four starts this fall and have a 2-0 Pac-8 mark. The Cougars, who opened with impressive victories over Nebraska and Michigan State, are now 2-2 overall and 0-1 in conference play.

The triumph extended the Trojans' winning streak to 15 games, longest in the nation, stretching back to their loss to Missouri in the 1976 opener. The victory also marked their 11th consecutive win over Washington State.

USC had entered the game a three touchdown favorite, but some observers believed the dangerous Thompson, throwing to Kelly and Mike Levenseller, might give the Trojan defense trouble.

But neither the Cougars' passing nor their rushing could challenge the USC defense, which has now given up just 27 points in four games.

Thompson's passing total was his lowest since he became the WSU starter 11 games ago, and the Cougars' rushing attack accounted for just 133 yards against the rugged Trojan defenders.

Simmrin, already the school's record-holder with at least one catch in his last 27 games, ran his string to 28, grabbing three passes for 91 yards, including the spectacular touchdown.

Jordan, who had kicked three field goals in the Trojans' 51-0 rout of TCU last Saturday, was two-of-three in this contest, making good on a 21-yarder in addition to the one from 24 yards away, and missing one from 47. He was flawless on conversions, driving five through the uprights.

Although Kelly and Levenseller ranked among the Pac-8's top receivers going into the contest, they could not shake the tenacious Trojan defenders. Kelly ended up with two catches for 39 yards and Levenseller caught just one pass for 14.

Late Giant TD nips Claremont

PB Staff Writer

Whether or not all things do in fact come to those who wait, that strategy certainly paid off for Garry Norvell Friday night.

A 10-yard touchdown pass from Ron Hughes to James Murdock and Ruben Raya's extra point kick gave Norvell's Ganesha High Giants a come-from-behind, 7-6 victory over Claremont in the San Antonio League opener for both teams at Citrus College.

The scoring pass came with 4:20 to play in the game, just two plays after Ganesha defensive end Kevin Jones recovered a Claremont fumble at the Wolfpack 10-yard line.

"That was the only way we could have won that game," said Norvell, shaking his head. "We had to have the big break.

"We couldn't do anything offensively, so I decided to just play it conservatively and hope we'd get good field position or something."

That decision was no doubt prompted largely by the second quarter, when Claremont's defense held the Giants to a net offense of minus two yards.

Few of those in attendance could have expected Ganesha to win because of a fumble. There were times in the game when the fumble seemed to be the mainstay of the Giant offensive arsenal — the Pomona school coughed the ball up six times, losing it on five occasions. But Ganesha had no turnovers in the final period.

Claremont fumbled five times, losing three.

Wolfpack kicker Doug Jollymour kicked field goals of 28 yards in the second quarter and 30 in the third after fumble recoveries by Neil Anderson and Gordon Descombes. Jollymour tried a 35-yarder to conclude Claremont's first series of the game but the ball hit the crossbar and bounced back.

After Scott McBride fell on a Ganesha fumble at the Giants' 46, the 'Pack moved to the Ganesha 2. On fourth-and-goal-to-go, Claremont's Jeff Smith nearly made it around right end but Duane Rodall dropped him for no gain.

Less than three minutes later, after another Giant fumble, defensive back Shelton Daniels broke up a Claremont pass in the end zone and the 'Pack settled for a field goal on fourth-and-seven from the 13.

Ganesha's Bennie Gooden rushed for 119 yards on 18 carries and Claremont's Jeff Smith ran up 114 yards on 21 tries. The pair accounted for most of the game's yardage, since Claremont netted 187 and Ganesha had 157.

"We might not have won if they'd had number five (injured running back Grant Warhurst)," said Norvell. "When they get him back, they'll be mighty tough."

Ganesha quarterback Hughes completed three of six passes for 30 yards while Claremont's Mike Pirolo hit four of 14 for 43 yards. There were no interceptions.

Claremont had the ball for 51 plays and made eight first downs. Ganesha earned seven first downs — six in the second half — on only 41 plays.

Claremont (1-2) will meet Pomona at Mt. San Antonio College Thursday and the Giants (3-0) will host Chino at Cal Poly Friday.

Garvey delivers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve Garvey's one-out single scored Jerry Grote from second base in the 14th inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Houston Astros 6-5 Thursday night.

Grote opened the 14th by drawing a walk and moved to second on Vic Davalillo's single off loser Bo McLaughlin, 4-7, setting the stage for Garvey's game-winning hit between short and third.

Dennis Lewallyn, 3-0, the fifth Dodgers pitcher, gained the victory in a game which saw 49 players used — 24 by the Dodgers and 25 by the Astros.

The Astros had tied the game in the top of the ninth on pinchhit singles by Bob Watson and Art Howe and an RBI grounder by pinch-hitter Wilbur Howard.

Don Sutton, in his final tuneup for his second-game start in the National League playoffs, worked seven innings, allowing four runs on nine hits. He left the game trailing 4-3, but the Dodgers scored twice in the seventh, on run-scoring singles by Lee Lacy and Davalillo.

Terry Puhl collected four of the Astros' 10 hits, including a triple, double and two singles. Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a two-run double.

Damien hangs on to down Devils

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Damien High used some clutch defense to make a third-quarter Steve Campbell touchdown stand up as the difference in a 6-0 blanking of Pomona Friday night.

The game played at Mt. San Antonio College marked the San Antonio League opener for both teams. Damien improves its overall record to 2-1 while Pomona drops to 0-3.

The Devils have now dropped 12 straight games including a winless (0-9) season last year.

Damien opened defense of its co-championship with the win while the other half of the co-title, Garey, lost its SAL opener.

The Spartan secondary picked off six passes thrown by Devil quarterback Darrell Keepers. Five of the interceptions came when the hosts were trying to mount a drive.

The other Damien interception came in the third quarter to set up the only score of the game at the 3:50 mark.

Spartan defensive back Darrell Wilson intercepted Keeper's pass on the Pomona 40 and raced to the 11-yard line. Damien was penalized 15 yards for clipping on the run back putting the ball on the 26.

Campbell did it all by himself gaining 16 and three yards on respective runs to set up his six-yard TD run. Mike Sullivan's kick for the extra point was wide to the left.

Pomona nearly had a touchdown in the first quarter when Mitchell Hall returned an interception 40 yards to paydirt only to have it called back on a clipping penalty.

Following that missed field goal, Pomona marched from its own 20 to the Spartan four-yard line only to have Mike Raffee intercept Keepers and return it to his own 10.

It was not a good night for quarterbacks as Keepers completed only eight-of-24 attempts for 107 yards. Damien signal caller Dan Marconi hit on 11-of-28 for 100 yards and was intercepted once.

Damien's next SAL opponent will be Montclair. That game will be played at Damien Friday night. Pomona will try to snap its losing skid Thursday night when it meets Claremont at MSAC.

Walnut rallies for win

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Walnut High scored three times in the fourth quarter to down Bonita High, 17-0, Friday night on the Bearcats' home turf.

Walnut racked up 420 offensive yards to Bonita's 128 but the Mustangs failed to punch the ball across the goal line until four minutes into the fourth quarter.

Running backs Dave Woronkiewicz and Tony Rossi combined for 262 ground yards against the Bearcat defense. But Bonita's defense was stingy with the yardage inside the 10-yard line. Walnut was stopped twice inside the 10 and Bonita also stopped two other drives on interceptions.

Walnut came within four yards of a first half touchdown as the clock ran out. Walnut used a bit of razzle-dazzle on Bonita to march the ball up the field from their own seven yard line. The Mustangs used a pass reception and lateral as Jim Schoulten dumped the ball off to Rossi for a total of 18 yards. Woronkiewicz ran 24 yards and Steve Green's 30-yard pass put the ball on the four. But Green was stopped short of a TD by Bonita's Greg Lopez.

At the end of the third quarter, Woronkiewicz was stopped by Lopez on the Bearcats' five-yard line.

Rossi finally put Walnut on the board with a two-yard TD burst in the fourth quarter. Bonita's defense reluctantly gave in as the Mustangs' offensive punch finally wore down the Bearcats' defensive personnel.

Bonita's running game was held to 92 yards by the Walnut defense. The Bearcats' longest run from scrimmage came early in the game when Bob Clark raced 16 yards. Bonita was limited to 1.7 yards on 13 running plays in the second half as Walnut stacked the line knowing that Bonita intended to run.

Walnut was "cheating" on the Bearcats as they had eight and nine men on the line of scrimmage. Bonita's Cory Miller only attempted one pass in the first half so Walnut figured that Bonita was going to stay on the ground.

Clark was called upon for field goal tries of 57, 46 and 30 yards but he missed all three attempts.

Walnut will face San Dimas Friday at 7:30 p.m. while Bonita hosts Royal Oak.

From PB Wire Services

The Boston Red Sox kept their slim American League East title hopes alive Friday night by outlasting Baltimore 11-10 at Fenway Park while Detroit was beating the New York Yankees, 5-2.

The loss for the Yanks prevented the New Yorkers from clinching the A.L. East flag outright. N.Y. clinched a title tie earlier this week but has since lost to Cleveland and the Tigers.

Jim Rice led Boston with two doubles, two singles and five RBIs. His single in the seventh scored Ted Cox and broke a 7-7 tie.

Ace reliever Bill Campbell, the Ganesha High grad, made his 69th appearance of the season for Boston and boosted his record to 13-8. Campbell bailed out Jim Willoughby in the sixth.

RBI hits by Ken Singleton, Lee May and Eddie Murray kept Baltimore alive in the ninth and kayoed Campbell, but Bob Stanley came on to strike out Elliott Maddox and retire Al Bumbry on a grounder to end the game.

At New York, Rusty Staub drove in three runs and southpaw John Hiller kept the big Yankee bats at bay as the Tigers kept N.Y. from clinching its second straight A.L. East pennant.

Both the Yankees and the Red Sox have two games remaining this weekend. The Yanks can clinch with a victory or a Bosox loss.

Cowboys' Bertschinger stars in 20-12 triumph

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Chino High Cowboys got an exceptional effort out of tailback Mike Bertschinger to gain their first win in San Antonio League play Friday night, 20-12, over the Garey Vikings.

The host Cowboys practically gave Bertschinger the ball on every play, as he carried 39 times for 203 yards and three touchdowns. What made the 6-0, 180-pound senior so incredible in his performance was the fact that he lost four contact lenses during the course of the action.

Chino coach Jim Rawls was pleased with Bertschinger's great game, but also noted that his offensive line was doing a fine job opening up the holes.

"Bertschinger had a great game," said Rawls. "I think, though, that we have the best offensive line around. That group includes center Hector Martinez, guard Sam Beebe, and tackles Ben Kramer and Gary Niekerk.

"They (the Vikings) were much quicker than we were, but I felt that we were much more physical. The leadership of Dan Reyes at quarterback made a big difference tonight. Middle linebacker Alton Rivera did a good job holding our defense together."

Reyes, who returned from an injury, completed three passes in seven attempts for 83 yards and had one interception.

The Vikings (0-1) opened the scoring just 47 seconds into the contest, as James Moore broke free on a counter play, cut across the grain, and dashed 85 yards for the touchdown.

With the extra point failing, Garey took a 6-0 lead.

Another big Garey play came on quarterback Anthony Clinton's perfect pass to David Forte for a 75-yard scoring strike. Clinton came up short in his try for two points.

Neither team reached the end zone in the third quarter, but early in the final frame Bertschinger ran the ball in from three yards out. The extra point kick was wide.

Clinton was six of nine for 168 yards via the air. The Vikings got 141 yards on the ground, with over half of that total coming on Moore's big gainer.

Cavs beat Upland

By KEITH LAIR
PB Correspondent

Montclair High halfback Kent Gurney scored one touchdown and added a field goal as he paced the Cavaliers to a 17-0 shutoout over visiting Upland High Friday night.

Gurney galloped from 22 yards out to score the first touchdown of the evening, in which he dashed for a total of 106 yards in 15 carries.

The Highlanders looked as though they were on their way to an opening score when Chris Molinar and Dick Chapman ran 38 and 16 yard gains respectively to put the ball on the 13 yard line. From there Upland quarterback Richard Pomerski threw his first of three interceptions to Pat Thomas.

Thomas quickly lateralled to Steve Pace, who sped downfield for a 53-yard pick-up. A personal foul by the Scots moved the ball further, setting it on the Highlander 23.

Runs by Gurney brought the ball to the nine, but a holding penalty returned the ball back to the 23. The Cavs drive then stalled, and Gurney booted a 37-card field goal to put Montclair on top 3-0.

An 18-yard punt by Upland's Rick Votaw set up the Cavaliers second score. Two plays later, Gurney scored on a 22-yard outburst.

The Cavs final score came in the third quarter when they marched the ball 42 yards in a sub-two minute drive. The score came on a 17-yard pass from Steve Jetton to Pace.

Lou Hudson now a Laker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have acquired forward-guard Lou Hudson from the Atlanta Hawks for forward Ollie Johnson in a straight player deal, the Lakers announced Friday.

Hudson, 33, is a veteran of 11 years in the National Basketball Association, all with the Hawks. He has scored 16,049 points as a professional, which makes him the sixth-leading active scorer in the league and the 19th top scorer overall.

Royals down Angels again

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals, riding a home run and a pair of doubles by Hal McRae, beat the California Angels 8-5 Friday night.

The victory was the Royals' 101st of the season, a record by an expansion team. The old mark was set by the 1969 New York Mets.

McRae led Kansas City's 13-hit attack, driving in three runs. The Royals' designated hitter belted his 21st homer of the season in the second inning, just before Amos Otis connected for his 17th.

Marty Pattin, hurling the final five innings in relief of Paul Splittorff and George Throop, picked up his 10th victory against three losses. The defeat went to California starter Ken Brett, 13-14.

Prince Vlad posts upset

Prince Vlad had won only one of his previous five starts prior to surprising even-money favorite Baker's Belief in the two-year olds attraction. Prince Vlad paid $46.40 to win.

Jockey Stallings was capturing his second win of the day. Earlier, he also won the $22,500 Pomona Appaloosa Futurity aboard heavily favored Olympic Time.

The Fair concludes it successful 1977 season today with the 30th running of the $40,000-added Pomona Handicap for older horses at a mile and one-eighth. First post time is 1 p.m.

Ontario holds on

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

The Saints scored first and held a 6-0 lead at 7:50 into the contest. But the Jaguars roared back to convert three first-half interceptions into touchdowns.

The Saints recovered an Ontario fumble late in the second half and converted that miscue into a TD to make it close, 19-13 with 2:54 remaining.

But the Jags controlled the ball the rest of the time and probably could have scored again if they hadn't chose to run out the clock.

"We felt in effect we gave it away," said San Dimas coach Don Warhurst. "But we're young and we're coming. We played a lot better this week and I was impressed with our defense."

The Saints' defense kept Ontario's Tom Jefferson from breaking any long runs. Jefferson, who had rushed for 203 and 208 yards in the Jags' first two games, was held to 126 yards in 28 carries Friday night.

"We stunk," he said. "Our defense wasn't so bad, but the offense was lethargic . . . just going through the motions. There were just too many mental mistakes."

On their first possession, the Saints drove 76 yards in seven plays plus two penalties to score. Quarterback Von Suchanek hit on four of six passes and connected with wide receiver Tom Ruffin for the final 16 yards.

But on San Dimas' second possession, Ontario's Jerry Cutbirth picked off a Suchanek aerial at the Saints' 38 and went all the way in for a TD.

On the second play of the Saints' third possession, Douglas Diggs snared an errant pass at Ontario's 43 and returned it to the San Dimas 29.

With Jefferson carrying five of six times, the Jags marched to paydirt.

It was 19-6 at the half and remained that way until late in the fourth quarter when San Dimas' Jim Curry recovered an Ontario fumbled at the Jags' 26. Two plays later, Suchanek passed 20 yards to Tom Lloyd for the final score.

The Saints hope to have Mike Nunley back in two weeks.

Nunley was given a medical clearance this week, but doesn't have good lateral movement yet.

San Dimas	6	0	0	7—13

San Dimas — Ruffin 16 pass from Suchanek (kick failed)
Ontario — Cutbirth 31 interception, run (Perez kick)
Ontario — Jefferson 3 run (pass failed)
Ontario — Perez 18 pass from Medina (kick failed)
San Dimas — Lloyd 26 pass from Suchanek (Gonzales kick)

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

In his seven years at Davis, Sochor has compiled a 54-16-2 record, which rates second nationally among NCAA Division II schools for coaches with fives years or more on the job.

So Jones knows his winless Broncos (0-2) have their hands full tonight in the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

"I guess we have to fight class with more class," Jones said about this evening's rugged assignment.

Thanks to a bye last week, Jones got a look at Davis in person when the Aggies edged Puget Sound, 16-14, before a capacity crowd of 7,400 to celebrate the Aggies' 22nd victory in their last 23 home games.

"I was very impressed with their overall organization," Jones said. "Davis has an excellent team. It is very experienced and is used to winning. We are looking forward to playing such a class team and it's great to be home."

Poly's first two games were on the road at Puget Sound (7-0) and San Francisco State (21-18) and the experience of traveling made it extra tough for a team with so many new faces.

"Having a bye and playing at home helped our preparation for this game," Jones said. "Our practices have been excellent this week with good spirit."

Davis has enjoyed victories over Cal Lutheran (24-9) and Puget Sound, a common foe for tonight's opponents.

The Aggies' main strength is their defense against the rush, allowing only a total of 85 yards on the ground in two games to rank second nationally behind only Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

So it appears Poly will again have a rough time getting a running attack going as evidenced by an average of only 50.5 yards per game.

Offensively, UCD will be directed by junior quarterback Mike Moroski, who has completed 25 of 55 passes for 278 yards, and running back Scott Thorne, who has rushed for 135 yards on 28 carries.

Jones, who has three quarterbacks to work with, said junior Sammy Ross, who missed the San Francisco game because of a finger injury, will open at the QB spot tonight. But junior Steve Taylor and freshman Gordy Bohannon may also see action.

Poly's top threat is wide receiver Teddy Myles, who has caught 12 passes for 104 yards.

Sochor, who has plenty of experience on defense but a lot of new people on offense, isn't sure what to expect tonight.

"We haven't scouted Poly," he said, "and because of the coaching staff, we can't go by last year's film. They're bigger than Puget Sound and run the same offense (option)."

BRONC BUSTERS — This is Davis' first visit to Pomona since 1968. Poly enjoys a 3-1 edge in the series but dropped a 28-7 decision at Davis last year.

Davis is included in this week's NCAA Division 11 national rankings as are four other Poly opponents. Northern Arizona, next week's foe, ranks eighth while Davis, SLO, Santa Clara and Cal State Hayward all earned votes. Overall, Poly's opponents have compiled a 19-8 record with five of the losses being to Division 1 teams.

Bruins can't look ahead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Under ordinary circumstances, UCLA and Iowa might both be looking ahead when they square off in an intersectional college football game tonight.

The Bruins open their Pacific-8 Conference schedule at Stanford next Saturday while the Hawkeyes resume play in the Big Ten against Minnesota the same day.

But considering what happened last week, it's likely the teams will concentrate on the current business at hand when they collide at the Coliseum.

The host Bruins, 1-2, will try to rebound from the surprising 27-13 setback they suffered at Minnesota last Saturday while the Hawkeyes, 2-1, were stunned by visiting Arizona 41-7 after winning their first two games.

A crowd of 40,000 is expected for the game, which starts at 7 p.m., PDT.

The Bruins and Hawkeyes will be meeting for the seventh time. UCLA has a 5-1 record. Iowa won the last time the teams played, 21-10 in 1974, giving Bob Commings his first victory as the school's head coach.

UCLA and Iowa have more in common than the shocking losses they experienced in their most recent efforts. Both are young teams, both have been hit hard by injuries, and each has scored 43 points while allowing 51 this fall.

The Bruins could be without as many as seven players considered as key performers before the season began. Running back Theotis Brown, punter-placekicker Frank Corral and defensive backs Phil Hubbard and Mike Molina are out indefinitely, while defensive linemen Manu Tuaisosopo, Steve Tetrick and Dave Morton are all listed as questionable performers.

Iowa, meanwhile, will go with freshman Bob Commings, Jr., the coach's son, as its starting quarterback and sophomore Tom Renn at tailback, both of whom were listed as third-stringers prior to the season but elevated to starting roles because of injuries.

Renn has carried the ball just once this season. Commings has completed 17 of 32 passes for 132 yards.

Quarterbacks Tom McLaughlin and Doug Piro and tailbacks Dennis Mosley and Ernie Sheeler are all sidelined. In addition, starting fullback Jon Lazar, who missed the Arizona game with an ankle sprain, may not play. He would be replaced by junior Jim Arkeilpane.

Owens has gained 218 yards in 50 carries. Bashore has completed 24 of 43 passes for 347 yards.

Coach Joe Paterno, whose young Penn State team broke away from a 3-3 halftime standoff to beat Maryland 27-9: "They could have lost their poise and rolled over, but they showed determination and poise."

Local JCs needing wins

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio and Citrus, two teams badly in need of a win prior to entering conference action, will hit the road tonight to square off against winless foes.

MSAC (1-2) will travel to Los Angeles to play Harbor JC (0-3). Citrus (0-2) will trek to Whittier College, where the Owls will meet Rio Hondo (0-1-1). Both those games will start at 7:30 p.m.

The Mounties, who started the year with an impressive 34-24 win over Rio Hondo, are a team looking for consistency going into tonight's game at Harbor.

MSAC opened impressively with a 35-24 win over Rio Hondo, but then dropped a 27-24 decision to Pasadena and last week was unimpressive in a 17-7 defeat at Glendale.

According to Mountie coach Mal Eaton, his team will need to take the best of each of their previous outings and combine that tonight to get back into the win column.

Harbor is coming off a 51-0 loss at home to San Diego Mesa, but the Seahawks traditionally play MSAC close and Eaton feels they are a solid team, at least on paper.

"Harbor is a big physical team with an explosive offense," said Eaton. "They play good defense and we've got to play our best game of the year so far to beat them."

Eaton is concerned with his team's motivation, or lack of it, based on last week's loss at Glendale. However, getting his team up for Harbor might not be a problem, as MSAC needs a win badly going into the always rugged South Coast Conference schedule.

Eaton indicated that freshman quarterback Butch Stocking will start again this week with Maxie Hamilton and Stan Webster joining him in the backfield. Eaton is hoping the young signal caller can get the potentially explosive MSAC offense untracked.

Eaton's troups also need to come up with a big game on defense. They currently rank last among SCC schools in that department.

Citrus is coming off a bye last week. The Owls took their lumps vs. potent foes Fullerton and Long Beach, but hope for better things tonight vs. Rio Hondo.

Tradition is on the Owls' side in the clash. Citrus has won four of the previous five games with Rio Hondo, outscoring the Roadrunners 54-6 in the last two meetings.

Strycula plans to start an offensive backfield of Ken Eriksen at quarterback and Charles Cole and Barry McManus at the running back spots vs. Rio Hondo. All three are freshman.

Cole, the former Pomona High star, is the Owls' leading rusher after two games with 98 yards on 31 carries. McManus, from South Hills, has 74 yards on 20 totes.

QB Eriksen, from Glendora High, has looked sharp at times in the Owls' two losses, having hit on 18 of 30 aerials for 165 yards.

Hill jumps to 58th place

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mike Hill, winner of the Ohio Kings Island Open and its $30,000 first prize, moved from 97th place to 58th, but there was little change in the top 10, according to figures released Tuesday by the Professional Golfers Association.

Ben Crenshaw, who tied for third at Kings Island and won $8,850, advanced from 16th to 10th, pushing Jerry McGee into the 11th spot.

Tom Watson, who did not play in Ohio, still leads golf's money winners with $305,428, followed by Jack Nicklaus, $284,509, Lanny Wadkins, $243,795, Tom Weiskopf, $197,639, and Bruce Lietzke, $194,597 is fifth.

La Verne seeks win vs. lowly Sagehens

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne College will likely record its first football victory tonight. But Claremont-Mudd and Pomona-Pitzer will find it difficult to avoid their second losses.

The action gets underway at 1:30 this afternoon when C-M hosts perennial power, Cal Lutheran. Pomona-Pitzer hosts La Verne at 7:30 this evening.

The last three years, coach John Zinda's Stags have given CLC all it could handle the first half. But the Kingsmen's superior manpower has taken its toll in the last two quarters.

The Stags have either led or tied CLC through most of the first half. Last week, while C-M was losing 16-6 at St. Marys', Cal Lutheran was pounding SCIAC power Redlands, 27-3.

"Our team really came together in beating Redlands," said CLC coach Bob Shoup. "I just hope we don't let down too much. The last time we were sky high, we came down to a very poor effort the next game."

Zinda will be looking for another good defensive effort from his team plus a little better parity on kicks.

"Out defense did a super job," said Zinda. St. Mary's got the ball on the 50-yard line every time and we started inside our 20. They averaged 49 yards on punts and we averaged 26."

To upset CLC, Zinda needs another outstanding efffort from his defense and another good offensive performance by Jimmy Reed who gained 136 yards.

"I'm looking at the quarterback situation in view of five interceptions last week," commented Ortmayer. "I won't make a decision until the last minute," said Ambord.

Ortmayer was very disappointed in his offense last week. "We really didn't play very well," he said. I figured we'd score three and possibly four touchdowns."

The Leos held Whittier to 211 yards but were under 200 yards themselves. Running backs Brad Frick (58) and Ben Morrow (29) netted only 87 yards between them.

Don Lugo hosts Webb at Chino

John Monger and his Don Antonio Lugo High football team - received a rough introduction to varsity competition last week — a 35-14 loss to Lutheran High of Orange.

"We learned a lot last week," said Monger, who saw his 22-game winning streak snapped. "They were a lot bigger and more physical than we are."

The Conquistadores will get their second taste of varsity action tonight when they host Webb at Chino High at 7:30 p.m.

Fullback Manuel Villalobos and linebacker Steve Moore were injured in the first quarter of last week's game but will be back in action tonight. "It was rough because they back each other up at those two positions," Monger said.

Unfortunately, starting defensive tackle Alan Bertschinger broke his hand and backup center John Santos injured his knee during practice this week. Santos is out for the year and Bertschinger will be replaced for several weeks by Danny Crume.

"I was pleased with our offense last week," Monger said, "but our defense wasn't aggressive — we just couldn't stop them."

Webb opened its season last week with a 27-6 loss to Big Bear, the seventh-ranked team in the Desert-Mountain Conference (formerly the 1A Division).

"Webb is pretty physical and we respect them," said Monger. "Of course we're going to respect everybody every week. We knew what we were getting into (going varsity), and we can't complain."

Webb's leading threats are halfback John Richards and quarterback Kerry Binsinger, both of whom play defensive back as well.

In other action tonight, Lutheran High of La Verne will host Irvine at Damien High at 8 o'clock and American Christian will visit Huntington Valley Christian at 7 p.m.

A.L. hosts C-C meet

Alta Loma High will host the annual Chaffey District Cross Country Meet today beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The five Chaffey District high schools — Alta Loma, Chaffey, Montclair, Ontario and Upland — plus Chino make up the six-team field.

There will be four races. Boys will run three miles on the varsity, junior varsity and frosh-soph levels and girls will compete over two miles.

Alta Loma won all three boys' races last year but Upland, new to the meet this year, is expected to provide stiff competition for the Braves.

Diamond Bar clubs post shutout wins

Three Diamond Bar Pop Warner youth football teams enjoyed shutout victories in the Mt. Baldy Conference last weekend.

The Tough Guys (tiny tots) blanked the Ontario Jets, 6-0; the Banditos (jr. pee wee) stopped the Ontario Bears, 38-0; and the Gauchos (jr. midget) beat the Fontana Lions, 28-0.

Todd Carcelli scored the touchdown for the Tough Guys, who have recorded three straight shutouts. Defensive standouts were Kraig Washington, Sean Layton, Ken Schaffer, Greg Tennyson, Scott Hartman and Carcelli.

The Banditos rolled up 343 offensive yards in their win with Emmet Downs (64 yards) and Reggie Williams (69) leading the attack. The defense allowed only two first downs in winning their third game without a loss.

Craig Stokes threw for three touchdowns to lead the undefeated Gauchos (2-0) with Richie Oseguera catching two of the TD passes and Gilbert Gabriel one. Kirk Washington passed for the fourth TD to Lamont Chambliss. David Youngwirth and Steve Kumpe kicked the extra points. Kim Greeley and Mike Lenahan led the defense with seven and six tackles respectively

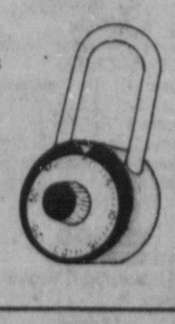
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DOES A COMBINATION LOCK WORK?"

PATTY SACKETT SHERIDAN, WY

A. TURNING THE DIAL OF A COMBINATION LOCK IN THE RIGHT ORDER OF NUMBERS ARRANGES A SET OF TUMBLERS INSIDE THE LOCK SO THAT THE LOCK BOLT CAN BE RELEASED

DICK Rogers



Some locks don't need a key to open them. They are called combination, or dial, locks, because a person must turn a dial in the right combination of numbers to unlock them.

Each turn of the dial makes a set of tumblers or wheels inside the lock move into the right positions so that the lock bolt inside is released.

A dial on a combination lock is usually marked from 1 to 100. The average combination lock may have several thousand possible combinations, of which only one will open the lock.

To fasten the lock, the dial is merely spun round to scramble the arrangement of the tumblers.

Combination locks are often used on safes, since any key lock can be picked (unlocked) by an expert. Some bank vaults have time locks. A clock mechanism in the vault door permits persons to open the vault only at a certain time, even if they know the combination.

Supervisors for Boys Full Time
If you have had any experience running a magazine crew, or newspaper experience operating with carrier boys, if you have had any experience in any direct sales, such as cookware, photos, books, etc., then don't pass this ad up.

I have taken the sting out of sales work; no collecting or delivering.

Let me introduce you to a program in newspaper circulation promotion. If you believe you can supervise teenage boys and have a good running sedan, station wagon or van, then I want to talk to you.

Our incentive and commission structure will earn you a better than average earning. Watch our operation in the field, then you be the judge. Call Mr. Julian, (213) 967-2069, between 9 a.m. & 11:30 a.m. for interview.

Pomona, California ■ Saturday, October 1, 1977

Claremont Community School of Music. . .

Story on pages 6-7

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

There's no doubt about it! History definitely does repeat itself. Over 100 years ago, in the summer of 1875, the few people then living in Pomona were experiencing a serious water shortage. We learn of this from statements M A Marshall, one of Pomona's first settlers, made to a Daily Progress reporter in 1888.

The troubles people were having in 1875, and the schemes to which they were compelled to resort because of the 3-year drought would amaze you," he recalled.

But Pomonans managed to live through that 3-year dry spell and shortly were blessed with an abundance of water. A good thing, too, for by 1888 there was more of a need for water in this city than ever before. A natural result of the fact that, as reported in The Pomona Progress on June 28, 1888: — "A Prohibition Club was organized in Pomona last Saturday evening."

Yes, with the water situation under control, Pomonans were doing things in a big way by 1888. And what was more, they were justly proud of their accomplishments which were placing this city right up in the forefront with the largest cities in Southern California. In proof there of, on July 5, 1888, The Pomona Progress pridefully pointed out:

"The Pomona people subscribed $587 for the celebration of the Fourth in this place. The sum of only $610 was subscribed in the City of Los Angeles.

RARE TEAKETTLE

Antique-wise

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: I would appreciate knowing the value and any information you can give me about this very old teakettle, made of copper. It stands 12 inches high (Top of handle), is 7 inches in diameter on the bottom and flares to 10 inches at the shoulder. It is marked ADAM WOLF on the handle. Are signed teakettles rare? Mrs. M.M.B.

ANSWER: No, as more copper teakettles are signed than any of the other products of the American coppersmith. They were regarded as an art form by the coppersmiths who made them and, in the tradition of men who cared enough to create an attractive object, they signed them proudly — usually on the broad flat handle.

Although it isn't known which objects were in the greatest demand during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, many experts feel that teakettles topped the list since more have survived than any other form. Forms varied, depending upon the place and period of manufacture, but the greatest variation was in size. Even though a variety of small teakettles were made with a diameter of less than six inches, the greatest number produced are within the eight-to-eleven-inch range, with a few larger ones in the twelve-inch size. Early copper teakettles were made in America from around 1735 until the mid 1800s. Signed examples the size of your teakettle carry price tags ranging from the $300-$375 figure.

QUESTION: Many years ago my grandmother (I'm 80) gave me a beautiful woven bedspread. It was dark blue with fringe on three sides, and was made for a large bed. I believe the woven design is known as "Lover's Knot."

My grandmother raised the sheep for the wool, made the blue dye and designed this bedspread. It is in excellent condition as it has had very little usage. It was given to me as a wedding present. Could you advise me of the value? Mrs. W.H.G.

QUESTION: Please explain why the interest in old oak toilet seats. I've operated a salvage yard for 16 years, never having a call for such an item until this year. Do these have an antique value? What are people using such things for? J. McN.

ANSWER: For the purpose they were intended to be used for. Presently refinished oak toilet seats are very much in demand. They sell in antique shops from about $30-$45.

CHESS LORE

One of the very best U.S. chess writer is Irving Chernev. Two of his books, "Winning Chess" (co-authored with Fred Reinfeld) and "Logical Chess Move by Move," have been particular favorites with hundreds of my students. And "Invitation to Chess" has set sales records for an introductory chess book.

Personally, I have always admired his ability to isolate the most important concepts and present them with lucidity and flair.

Irving Chernev's most recent book, "Wonders and Curiosities of Chess" — Dover 1974, is a repository of anecdotes, oddities and historic games, as the following samples will indicate:

CHESS AND INSANITY

In 1850 an old passion for chess awoke in Szechenyi (founder of the Magyar Academy) and took an insane character. It became necessary to pay a poor student to play with him for 10 or 12 hours at a time.

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

The two 1977 U.S. Christmas stamps will be issued Oct. 21 in separate locations. Both are being printed in the regular stamp size rather than the standard commemorative size in order to reduce the cost of the printing due to the popularity of the annual Yule set. Both are 13-centers.

One stamp will show Gen. George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge during the winter of 1777-1778. It will be issued at Valley Forge, Pa. The design is based on a painting by J.C. Leyendecker which appeared as a Saturday Evening Post cover in 1935.

The second stamp will feature holiday mail in a rural mailbox against a snowy backgound. This stamp will have its first day location at Omaha.

If you prefer to affix your own stamps, you are reminded to place them in the upper right corner of the envelope with your return address on the right side near the bottom. Envelopes, postmarked no later than Nov. 5, should be forwarded to "First Day Cancellations, Postmaster, Valley Forge, PA 19481" (or "Omaha, NE 68108" for the mailbox stamp) for cancellations and return by mail. No remittance is required.

For the USPS affixing stamps, send your envelopes properly addressed for return, to: "Valley Forge Stamp, Postmaster, Valley Forge, PA 19481" or "Mailbox Stamp, Postmaster, Omaha, NE 68108" with 13 cents remittance per stamp (in money order not cash). ORDERS MUST BE POSTMARKED NO LATER THAN NOV. 5.

Y-Teens enlisting activists

LAURA LEE

Throughout the country, Y-Teens are on the move, among them the teens in the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley. They are inviting other teen women throughout this area to join them in their program of action during National Y-Teen Week, Oct. 9 to 15.

These young women are moving up fast through the ranks of the YWCA and are working in partnership with adults to eliminate racism and sexism. They are representing themselves and other Y-Teens on policy-making committees (both local and national), and on the advisory board of the YWCA's official news publication, "Interchange."

A student at Ganesha High School, Cheryl James, serves on the local YWCA's board of directors. Laura Lee, also from Ganesha High School, represented teens at the National Teen Organization (NYO) Action Assembly held in August at UC San Diego where the two issues for action were Juvenile Justice and Youth Employment.

Action is the key characteristic of the young women who involve themselves in the work of the YWCA and its fight for peace, justice, freedom and dignity for all people.

Y-Teen Week is a good time for teen women of Diamond Bar, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Chino and Alta Loma to visit the YWCA office at 1787 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, and see how the Y-Teens are moving on up in the YWCA.

Fiery radicalism of last decade waned?

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer

On the dawn of a new academic year, far away in time from a riotous decade of campus unrest, a portrait is emerging of the California university student of 1977. It's an image of realism, not idealism.

The picture, drawn by student leaders, educators and administrators, shows that the fiery radicalism of a decade ago is gone. But some believe the right spark could again light at least a flickering flame of activism.

"Young people today are much more serious-minded," said U.S. Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, 71, made famous beyond his academic renown as a semanticist when he stood up to angry students at San Francisco State University in 1968.

Students today, he said, "believe in the rights of individuals to freedom of speech, freedom of expression and continuation of their education."

Clark Kerr, 66, fired by regents as University of California president shortly after Ronald Reagan became governor in 1967, says students are now concerned with finding jobs.

Chancellor Albert H. Bowker, of 28,500-student UC-Berkeley, a hot-bed of opposition to the Vietnam war, says there "appears to be more emphasis now on preparation for employment and more recognition of the job problems."

"People are washed out," agrees Berry Grey, 22-year-old senior and city editor of UCLA's Daily Bruin. "It's passe. People are more interested in themselves and what kind of job they're going to get."

Despite this peaceful, hardworking image, there are those who predict students will resume demonstrating this year, again over what many see as moral issues.

Stanford University Vice President Robert W. Rosenzweig predicts problems this fall on his 11,500-student campus over university investments in apartheid-troubled South Africa.

"There's no doubt in my mind about that," he said. "The organization is in place...plans are being made by the activists." He believes, nevertheless, that this leadership realizes the value of peaceful protest.

University of California campuses like Berkeley and Santa Cruz, which were involved in demonstrations on the same subject last spring, could face similar action this year.

And there are other reasons for campus concern. Ned V. Joy, associate vice president for academic affairs at 31,000-student San Diego State University, sees "an air of cynicism, of trying to beat the system now, of getting ahead."

These and other campus figures were asked to compare today's college student to those of the fiery days of the protest era.

Almost without exception, interviews began with a trip back in time, back to the surging mobs, the flailing clubs, the fire bombs, the strident slogans of "Off the pigs!" "Hell no, we won't go!" and "Shut it down!"

The date was Oct. 1, 1964, at the entrance to the 1,232-acre Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Campus cops grabbed Jack Weinberg, a former student soliciting funds for the Congress of Racial Equality, arrested him for trespassing and tossed him inside a police car.

Damien cheerleaders picked

By ROSE TRESSEL
St. Lucy's Correspondent

Girls from St. Lucy's Priory High School in Glendora and Pomona Catholic High School have been selected to serve as cheerleaders for freshmen games at Damien High School in La Verne.

Out of 28 who tried out, only six were chosen.

They are Ann O'Neill, Chris Jenkens and Dorothy Frykke from St. Lucy's and Cindy Borba, Maria Sichles and Anna Perdoma from Pomona Catholic.

Mrs. Dee Jenkins is Damien's cheerleader coordinator.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The business of today's college students increasingly is business, with a turn away from activism and towards conservative, dollar-oriented careers, business leaders say.

At General Motors, the nation's largest corporation, graduates they hire are "more mature-acting than they were in the '60s," says Chester Francke, director of placement and college relations.

One executive, Francke said in a telephone interview, suggested that "perhaps the slump in the economy had something to do with changing attitudes." It may be making the current crop of students "a little more practical about their careers," he added.

But for all their maturity and willingness to face the grim facts of the job market, today's graduates "seem to be coming to us now with much greater naivete about the economics of life," said Francke. "There's an economic illiteracy that seems to be growing."

At Dow Chemical, which got its lumps from activists during the Vietnam era over the manufacture of napalm, campus recruiter Bob Mayo found the academic pastures akin to the quiet '50s.

"There's been a turn toward a much more conservative career," he observed, noting that today's students are more dollar-oriented than they were a decade ago.

Mayo, who recruited for Dow during the demonstrations, said, "There were good folks coming out of college then just as there are now."

But generally, he said, today's college graduate is "more conservative now, more capitalistic, more interested in entrepreneur-type activities compared with goodness and light and everything total, white or black...it's rather dramatic."

Jim Nunan, northwestern region recruiting manager for International Business Machines, agreed with Mayo that today's students are a lot like those of the '50s.

A decade ago, he said, "they were all political science majors. Now, they're going out for business again, because a lot of them are disillusioned about trying to earn a living with a poli-sci major."

Speech Movement, kicked off his shoes and leaped to the roof of the patrol car. His name was Mario Savio, and his words electrified the crowd:

"You've got to put your bodies upon the gears and upon the wheels, upon all the apparatus...indicate to the people who own it that unless you're free the machine will be prevented from working at all."

His words were the catalyst.

For the next 32 hours the police car, Weinberg trapped inside, didn't move. A crush of bodies immobilized the vehicle. A chord, playing the theme of dissent of the Vietnam war and racial inequality, sounded on campuses nationwide.

Years later, on Feb. 26, 1970, the same raucus harmony sounded in Southern California when a young, anti-war, antidraft, anti-high rent mob burned down a $300,000 branch of the Bank of America at Isla Vista, bedroom community for UC-Santa Barbara.

In the intervening years, both sides — the radicals and the voices of law and order — dealt in the currency of hatred, passion and violence. There were no discussions; only threats and demands for unconditional surrender.

Kerr, who lost his job during the late-'60s strife, now chairs the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education. His office is a few blocks from the Berkeley streets washed by those years of campus turmoil.

The students of the '60s were a more affluent group, he said. "They demanded electives so they could take more socially relevant courses," while today's students want electives to ensure a job.

A new wave of students occupies the campus today. In addition to wealthy youngsters and the children of the middle class, there now are a large number of military veterans and young minority men and women getting an education under liberalized admissions policies.

Kerr is convinced there will be another wave of activism. "I don't know when it's going to come, and I don't know what it will be about," he said.

He mentioned a visit he made last spring to UC-Santa Cruz, coincidental with a student protest of university holdings in corporations dealing with South Africa.

Some students told him they didn't want to repeat the mistakes of the last time around. "They didn't want violence this time," he noted.

The campus disenchantment with violence was demonstrated late last spring during a Stanford disburbance on the same issue. Police arrested 270 demonstrators. Protest leaders, determined to make it a peaceful show, had taken from their followers objects which might be mistaken for weapons.

Kerr wouldn't guess whether that issue, or the Alan Bakke reverse discrimination case might be the catalyst for trouble. The Bakke case involves a state Supreme Court decision that UC's special admissions program, which benefits minorities, illegally discriminates against whites. An appeal is now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Rosenzweig, who heads Stanford's public affairs section, says it's folly to look for differences in the students of today and of a decade past.

"It's a fiction of the media that the students are different," he said. "I think some external circumstances have changed — obviously, the end of the war and the end of the draft were very significant. What they did was take the immediacy out of political action."

Another who believes the issues are not present to get a student's idealistic adrenaline working is Craig Ehrlich, UCLA's student president, who says:

"There's no issue to unite us. There's no Vietnam...there isn't a lot of excitement" among the students. And people, he said, are more cautious than they used to be.

"So many people were hurt by the stands they took," he said.

"There are so many competing issues that nothing takes the social attention that the war in Vietnam got...nothing makes people say, 'let me drop everything else in my life and grab onto this cause'," he said.

A similar view came from UCLA chancellor Charles Young, who sees today's student considering career choices and personal problems rather than social problems.

"Today's social issues of concern deal with the equality of opportunity in terms of ethnic and sexual discrimination," he said. "The student of the '60s felt that economically he had it made...I think there was a rude awakening."

Hayakawa, in a telephone interview from his Mill Valley home, made no attempt to hide his abiding disgust for the campus bands that tried to make his life miserable in the winter of 1968-69.

Today's students, he said, "do not have the vague and shadowy ideals of 10 years ago, but much more specific ones," he said. "The present generation is disillusioned with the near-fascism of the 1960s in which small minorities imposed their views on the rest of the population."

Specific changes in student interests are significant to Bowker, who says preparing for the future has had "a considerable effect on student interest and behavior. There's tremendous pressure for students to get into business, law school, medical school, architecture, engineering."

Despite the years of riots, 58-year-old Bowker found something good in it all. The student movement, spurred by a small but vocal core of radicals, showed the public that the nation's bright, young minds were opposed to the war, he said.

In no-nonsense terms, 22-year-old Jackie Thornton, a Fresno State University journalism major, concludes today's student is unwilling to get involved with anything that would hurt his education.

"Students today are not as concerned about changing the world through protest as they are in getting a paycheck," she said. "The job market is a lot tougher and they are aware of that."

The student of the '60's was idealistic, and the student of '77 is realistic, she concluded.

What form has this realism taken? For one, the academic pressure gauge is hitting the ceiling in every business school in the country. At Stanford's Graduate School of Business, considered one of the best, there were 1,700 applications in 1967. This year, some 4,300 young men and women have applied for the school's 300 slots.

Nationally, the Educational Testing Service counted 58,500 taking tests for business schools in 1967 and 145,000 this year.

Mark Mancall, director of Stanford's Overseas Study Program who lives in a student dorm, says students today and the protest era cannot be compared.

"They are extraordinarily serious and studious and quite worried about their future," he said. "They wonder if they are going to have jobs when they graduate. But they like to have some excitement in their lives and that's why you had the (anti-South African) sit-in."

Student editor Grey ranks economics No. 1 in the minds of most students. "It puts pressure on the individual to get better grades and build a nice resume while in college," he said.

Perhaps the bottom line of the opinion is his observation that, at UCLA at least, there are no student leaders in sight with the charisma to mobilize lively protests.

Journalism professor Don Krimel at California State University, Northridge, who was on the Southern California campus in the '60s, said any would-be activists at his school are keeping a low profile.

"Even where there are student activists involved, they don't express their relative radicalism," he said.

U.C. investments cause new rift

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of California's lucrative portfolio, containing $555 million worth of stock in 60 firms that operate in South Africa, has become a bitter bone of contention between angry students and university regents.

Some observers feel the investments could be the one issue capable of sparking trouble on the state's college campuses during an otherwise predictably calm school year.

The newly-formed Board of Regents committee on social responsibility in investment decisions may provide proposals on how to handle the controversial stock.

But the crowd of jeering students who hooted announcement of the committee's formation at the September regents' meeting indicates that the controversy is far from resolved.

Protest of the investments flashed across the nine-campus system in the spring of 1977. Nonviolent demonstrations on several campuses prompted arrests of several hundred students, including 401 at UC's Santa Cruz campus and 59 on two occasions in Berkeley.

One spring meeting of the regents was forced to adjourn when a crowd of chanting students disrupted the agenda with a call to end all investment in companies doing business in South Africa.

They argued that support of those firms is a financial prop to South Africa's system of racial separatism.

Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, the state's first black lieutenant governor and a member of the board, agreed with the argument and proposed the university divest itself of the stock.

Dymally's proposal and a compromise measure failed to win approval. Most critics of the proposals agreed with a report by board treasurer Owsley Hammond which said divestment could hurt UC financially and would have little impact on apartheid.

On Sept. 16, the board adopted a resolution introduced by Regent William A. Wilson setting up an advisory committee on shareholder responsibility which would report to the investments committee.

But there are some who feel that naming the advisory committee will probably not silence the new wave of campus dissent.

"It's an attempt to fend off student protest and try to funnel it into some negotiating, talking stage," said Steve Diamond, 21, of the Campus United Against Apartheid, the group which staged several of last spring's demonstrations. "I think most students see right through that. We've gone through most of that stuff in the 60s."

A campus couple

What a difference a decade can make

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Tom Norminton was president of Associated Students at UCLA, he decided to set aside money from his office budget to buy gas masks for the staff.

Seven years later, in 1976, another UCLA student body president — Norminton's wife, Meg — was faced with another decision. She had to decide whether to buy butcher-block or regular tables for the prospering student union.

"Tom was president in the middle of the war, with the riots," said Meg, 22, who headed the student government from the spring of 1976 until fall of last year.

"My year, the students went to school, went home and got drunk," said Meg in an interview in her husband's swank office.

"There was always a crowd or a mob," he said. "The anxiety level was really high. I can remember coming back to my dorm room and thinking 'How can this go on? What's going to happen?'"

What happened, the couple agreed, is that student energy burned out and they became tired of fighting. That fatigue has combined with the lack of a central issue to unite students in the '70s.

"In the '60s, there was something bigger than all of us," said Meg. "Now, there's nothing more important than you are. So people are into EST, yoga, biofeedback."

"When I ran for office," said Tom, "people wanted to stop the war."

Student goals today are similar to those most parents have for their offspring — getting good jobs and making money, she said.

Norminton, now a university trustee, said the UCLA Associated Students Corp. has become a financial monolith worth more than $20 million. This contrasts with 1970 when the student union was bankrupt, he said.

In contrast to the students of the 1960s who were "chasing windmills," Tom said, today's students are grasping onto personal causes that will aid them when they enter the "real world."

"The outlook isn't as rosy," he explained, "so you have people climbing over each other's backs to get into the available slots in society."

Ganesha student council planning activities

By MELISSA CLESCERI
Ganesha Correspondent

The Ganesha High School Student Council is planning activities for the 1977-78 school year.

These activities include a dance scheduled for Friday, Oct. 14 at 10 p.m. after the Ganesha Giants versus Pomona Devils football game at 7:30 p.m. The dance will be held in the Giant gymnasium. It will be casual, come-as-you-are dress. Student Council members are currently auditioning bands.

Student Council is preparing to launch a "Beautify the Ganesha Campus" campaign. Ganesha clubs will be asked to decorate and keep the campus clean. Council members are also hoping to paint the Ganesha Giant Logo on the sidewalk in front of the school. The district provided funds for Ganesha's new paint job.

Last year's threat of a closed campus has moved council members to continue to remind students that open campus is a privilege and to respect the property of the neighboring residences to Ganesha. Despite efforts by Student Council members, McDonald's restaurant, which last year prohibited Ganesha students from the establishment during school hours, has refused to admit students this year.

Noontime activities for this quarter will include music by various bands. The annual Fall Festival Carnival will be held in November.

ASB card sales have been successful, according to council members. To date 350 cards have been sold. It is hoped that by November, 800 cards will have been sold. Currently cards are being sold for $6. On Oct. 17, cards will cost $7.50. Ganesha ASB cards admit students to home sports events free of charge and provide up to $75 in other discounts.

ASB officers are Phil Kranenberg, president; Byron Gricher, vice president; Monica Upchurch, secretary; Jamie Ali, treasurer; and Merna Aviles, Tyna Brooks, Eric Sanders and Adrienne Tucker, commissioners.

Kranenberg said of the new school year activities, "Student Council members are building a strong relationship among themselves and through this we can accomplish much. The first of the school year has gotten off the ground very smoothly. Ganesha students will have one of their better years."

Lutheran High officers listed

By LYNN HERMAN
Lutheran Correspondent

At the end of the '76-'77 school year, Lutheran High, La Verne, conducted its fifth annual ASB election of officers. Heading Student Council this year are Jerry Olenyn, president; Robert Wallan, vice president; Laura Kniep, secretary; and Chris Gardner, treasurer. They are all seniors.

Jerry Olenyn has had previous experience in school politics both here at Lutheran High, and at Lorbeer Junior High School in Diamond Bar.

Two of Jerry's goals are having the best homecoming yet, and getting a constitution for the school.

As vice president, Robert Wallan is experiencing his first year on Student Council. One of Robert's objectives, along with the other members of Student Council, has already been realized. That was to revise the school dress code.

Secretary Laura Kniep says that being elected was a great honor. She is proud to be part of the Student Council, which she feels is the best organized and efficient yet.

Chris Gardner, another first-year member, is enthusiastic. His goal is to keep financial records straight, and to do it honestly. One of his duties at present is selling ASB cards.

An opportunity for the musically inclined

ON THE COVER

Seven-year-old Aaron Hughston of Claremont had finished his violin lessons and was now happily (and skillfully) kicking his soccer ball across the sun-drenched lawns of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church in Claremont.

I asked him how he liked violin lessons. "I like them fine," he replied. Would he rather play soccer than the violin? He shook his blonde head. "I like them both," he said firmly. Which is good news for his team and a tribute to the Claremont Community School of Music where Aaron studies violin. (Classes meet at the church.)

The school was organized by a group of concerned parents and interested musicians and incorporated as a non-profit educational institution in 1970 when public schools were cutting back on music classes because of tightened budgets. The objectives are to provide instruction in all instruments by well-qualified teachers, to give students (and adults) the enjoyment of playing music with others, and to develop each musician to the highest level of his ability in performance.

The carefully selected faculty is made up of concert artists, soloists, orchestral performers and teachers. President this year is Ralph Pierce,-concert pianist and professor of music at Scripps College and the Claremont Graduate School for many years. Director of the school is Lorraine F. Young, who teaches flute and recorder.

Violin instruction is given by Marjorie Marth, director of the string department; Daniel Strang, former concert master of the Claremont Symphony Orchestra, and Alice Bentley. Richard Mooney teaches cello, and Lori Ives viola. Carol Hendrixson is director of the piano department, which includes Natalie Higgins, Bonnie Snortum and Norma Banman. Wesley Hawks teaches clairnet; Thelma Geller oboe; Steve Marcussen trumpet; Clifford Keating other brass and Richard Jensen classical and folk guitar. Lilli Singer is accompanist. Voice lessons are also offered.

Sandra Parker teaches Yamaha. Yamaha? These are classes in music education for moppets four to seven years old that stress exploration and experience of music in a group situation with child, parent and instructor. The course includes an introduction to rhythm, melody and harmony through games, songs and body movement specially designed to develop musical awareness in the young child.

A major feature of the CCSM is the Suzuki violin course, a program developed in Japan 40 years ago by violinist-teacher Shinichi Suzuki and since spread throughout the world. Suzuki discovered that small children have a greater awareness and aptitude for learning music than was generally believed, and he started teaching violin to two- and three-year-olds. His aim was not to teach them to become accomplished musicians — though many have — but to enrich their lives through intimate contact with music and the inner satisfaction that comes from doing something well. At CCSM a Suzuki violin workshop will find musicians from pre-schoolers to high schoolers performing together. The disciplines and learning procedures of the violin instruction program carried over into other intellectual areas, and Suzuki violin students were found to perform at a markedly higher level in academic work than their classmates. The students are taught to play by listening, imitation, repetition and instruction in proper techniques.

Parents are at the center of the Suzuki plan. One or both attend each private lesson and the semi-monthly ensemble class. They learn to play the instrument themselves and take notes during the child's practice sessions and lessons, study the manuals and help the young musician at home with encouragement and constant repetition.

At present, CCSM has an enrollment of some 150. The school is supported by modest tuition fees, public donations and proceeds from faculty benefit concerts. All the funds go into the work and development of the program.

However it is presented, music education — especially constant practicing — turns off many young people. (I speak from my own experience.) I asked trumpet student Jim Ives, 13, how he liked the program. "It's a good school," he said. Is it fun? "Well, if you call practicing fun," he said laconically.

I got a different reaction from six-year-old Wendy Waggener when I interrupted her at her piano lesson. "I like this a lot," she said. Would you rather be out on the playground? "No — this is fun!"

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

That's not right anymore — not since the mine moved atop the mountain. Not since the only "played out" silver mine in the United States was reopened by modern technology, the high price of silver and a $20 million gamble.

The population has doubled. So has the police force — from one to two. Prices at both motels have gone up, trailer courts have replaced sage brush, Wendell Collins bought a trucking firm and sold some of his ranch and Mayor Aiden Madariaga quit pumping gas after more than 20 years to become a mine foreman.

"They came by and made an offer that sounded awful good," he said.

The ranchers grumble about dust the miners' road kicked up — dust, they said, that could give cattle pneumonia. And just about everybody in Jorda' Valley squawked about t! e fact that the DeLamar Mine was in Idaho — recipient of the tax dollars — while the schools where the miners' children went were in Oregon.

"It will fall upon us to educate the miners' children," said Collins. Further complicating matters, Oregon school taxes are based on property taxes, and only one miner has bought a home.

Ranchers look at land as money in the bank and aren't eager to sell. They say they love wide open spaces and the Taylor Grazing Act allows them to graze their stock on federal land in proportion to how much land a rancher owns.

"I don't want anybody living on my back door. This old land means a lot to me."

Besides, if he sold his choice land along the road to the mine he would lose grazing rights to some of the 277 acres of government land he uses.

Lowry and others complain about the attitude some of the miners brought to this sleepy little cow town that lives off U.S. 95 as it makes an "L" in the heart of town, funneling 500 cars and up to 200 trucks through each day.

"They came in here like we were living in Appalachia and needed them," says Lowry. "We weren't that bad off. There are a few men in this town who could write a check that would make the Kennedys look twice."

Last April the first silver was poured. An armored car parked outside the Sahara Motel all night was visible to everyone and the first silver buttons were loaded up at the mine next day.

The DeLamar Silver Mine is a joint venture between Earth Resources Company, Superior Oil Co. and Canadian Superior Mining Ltd., and it is the third largest silver mine in the United States. Its expected annual production is 2.5 million ounces.

The mine's ore has an assay of four to five ounces of silver per ton with a trace of gold. That low grade wasn't profitable in the late 60s and early 70s when silver was going for $1.30 an ounce. At about $4.50 an ounce today, it's economical to open the mine.

Miller won't say how much the mine is expected to gross, but 2.5 million ounces at current prices comes to more than $11 million.

Officials say the mine has at least 20 years, and Miller predicts it will dramatically change the town. "Five years from now you won't recognize Jordan Valley. There will be new homes, new businesses."

Tom Miche, a mine superintendent, also says that the natives' fears about the school system are valid. "We'll vote in school bond issues they don't want. It's inevitable."

Depending upon how long the mine functions, that could be a problem for a long-term bond issue if, in fact, the miners do pull out of town.

In Jordan Valley there's no movie house, no bowling alley. If you want something like that, it's an hour away — in the Nampa-Caldwell, Idaho, area.

There has been some talk of new businesses opening up. But for the moment, little has changed. Attendance is up at the three churches — Catholic, Methodist, Mormon. So is business at the post office, the gas stations and the restaurants.

Jimmy Eordi, manager of the JV Tavern and Cafe, says his business increased by about 30 per cent when the construction workers were in. They tended to be a rough crew and some talked of prison records.

Charlie Duvall, head of personnel at the mine and a city council member, says it has been most careful in screening the 135 employes. But Peggy Zatica, also a city council member, says the screening isn't careful enough.

Police Chief Paul Arritola says there's been an increase in crime — a few houses burglarized, some petty theft and fights in the street. But he's not so sure it's all imported. "There's a tendency to blame everything on the miners."

Bluegrass music will be featured in Spillikin Corners, the park's new village of master crafts. Each day of the Festival, the Corners hosts different music competitions such as hand-pickin', flat-pickin' and old-time banjo.
